Otto John Quit To 'Expose' Revival of Nazism, He Says

BERLIN (AP)—Dr. Otto John today destroyed the myth of his "abduction" by the Communist East.

He told a huge news conference in the Soviet sector he deserted as West Germany's security chief on July 20 to expose what he called revival of Nazism in West Germany, and to work for German unity by telling the "real truth" about the European Defense Community.

APPEARING BEFORE more than 400 correspondents of the world press, John declared he went over to the Reds to join what he described as the only forum he could find to warn the world the United States is using Britain, France and the Bonn regime as "tools" for another war which would destroy Germany.

In Bonn, Allied and West German officials plunged into special conferences to consider the impact of John's own statement he had voluntarily deserted to the East.

Chancellor Konard Adenauer's government and the U. S. High Commission had contended John was lured or tricked into East Germany by the Communists.

Nattily dressed, nervous for a while but finally at ease, John read a long, prepared statement and then jousted with correspondents in a rapid fire question and answer period

He answered them all, in his way, quietly and firmly, with one exception.

Asked about the wife he abruptly left behind when he crossed into the Soviet sector the night of July 20, John said he would not discuss private matters.

He said that during his recent trip to the United States, he "gathered that out of the hysterical fear in the United States, another war is being prepared and that the German people would suffer most from this war."

ONLY LAST WEEK the West German government offered a reward of $119,000 for information that would clear up John's sensational disappearance. Asserting that he was being held in the East against his will, the Bonn government also asked the three Western Allies to appeal to the Russians for his release.

The East Germans presented the 44-year-old John at an elaborately staged press gathering in Berlin's Soviet sector to which they had invited the entire Western press.

Hundreds of American, British, French and other foreign journalists and photographers jammed the East Berlin "Press Center" to hear John tell his story in his own words.

John's first public appearance since he crossed to the Red Camp 22 days ago shaped up as a major Communist propaganda effort

Despite the East German government sponsorship of his appearance today, John insisted he is not a Communist

"I remain politically independent as I always have been," he declared "The same people who say today that I am a traitor are the people who said it 10 years ago."

Just 10 years ago John participated in the anti-Nazi putsch against Hitler's life but escaped reprisal by fleeing to Spain His brother was executed for a part in the abortive plot.

JOHN HIMSELF chose the 10th anniversary of the putsch to cross from West Berlin into the Soviet sector on the night of July 20

The East Germans announced later he had been granted political asylum at his request In subsequent radio statements John assailed the HOOVER DEDICATES SCHOOL ON BIRTHDAY. Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States, turns a spadeful of dirt at the base of a newly-planted tree as he dedicates the Herbert Hoover Grade School during ceremonies honoring him on his 80th birthday at West Branch, Ia., Hoover's birthplace. In a speech the ex-President said that presidential "misuse of power" during the 20-year tenure of the Democrats assisted the Soviets, damaged the United States, and contributed to the enslavement of millions.

Blasts Democrats

Hoover Offers Aid In GOP Campaign

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Former President Hoover says he will be "glad to help in any way I can" in Republican political campaigning between now and the November elections.

He was completing a round of visits in his native Iowa today.

Honored by 10,000

They began yesterday in his birthplace at the nearby village of West Branch, where more than 10,000 people gathered to honor him on his 80th birthday. After the "birthday party," he flew to Mason City and was scheduled to dedicate a school there and another in Cedar Rapids before flying to New York this afternoon.

The nature of his speech at West Branch aroused considerable speculation as to whether it was an opening gun in the GOP political cannonading. He blasted the Democrats for presidential "misuse of power" in both domestic and foreign policies during the 20 years they were in office.

Before he left his hometown, a reporter asked him if he intends to make any campaign speeches this fall.

"I have no specific plans," he said, "but I'll be glad to help in any way I can"

Hoover's appearance, on his 80th birthday, deeply surprised people who had not seen him in some years He was full of vigor. He marched through a warm sun, delivered a lengthy speech without a falter, rode dusty miles to dedicate schools in Iowa City and West Branch — and was still in a joking mood at the end of a long day.

"Some people have to endow a school to have it named after them," he told a crowd at a new elementary school. "I am more fortunate."

Forceful Attack

The force with which he attacked the actions of the Democrats, and the applause he evoked, showed that he is still capable of taking part in a political affray.

Among the major points he made were:

1. "Unrestrained presidential actions have resulted in a shrinking of human freedom over the whole world. From these actions came the jeopardies of the cold war. As a by product, these actions have shrunk our freedoms by crushing taxes, huge defense costs, inflation and compulsory military service."

2. "Our tacit alliance with Soviet

Eight Nations Ready To Join Asian 'NATO'

Alliance Against Red Aggression Proposed By U.S. Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven countries were reported ready today to join the United States in drafting an alliance they hope will check further Red aggression in Southeast Asia.

Simultaneous announcement in all eight capitals is expected late this week. The various foreign ministers reportedly will meet Sept. 6 at Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines, to weld the pact.

Nations in Alliance

Nations said to be ready to attend are Britain, France, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

U.S. diplomatic officials acknowledged there appears to be no chance that such Asiatic countries as India, Burma, Indonesia, and Ceylon — all of which have important stakes in Southeast Asia — would agree either to attend the meeting or to associate themselves indirectly with the military objectives of the alliance.

American officials, however, are clinging to some hope that India and other "neutralist" nations in Asia will join in the economic phases of the proposed pact.

Members of the proposed alliance, it was said, would pledge to cooperate to improve economic conditions in the region. Cooperative action would include technical aid projects.

Challenge Aggression

On the military side, members would promise to challenge any aggression in Southeast Asia. No specific line would be drawn against the Reds, informants said, but it would be understood informally that the non-Communist parts of Indochina would be covered, even though these states would not be pact signatories.

Despite limited Asiatic membership, American officials were pictured as confident the pact would discourage any new Red attack in Southeast Asia.

Although American policy makers were reported to be disappointed that India has declined thus far to support the alliance, they also were understood to feel this will not be fatal to success of the anti-Communist lineup

Secretary of State Dulles, who first proposed the united action idea last March 29, would represent the United States at the conference.

Afterward, Dulles is expected to fly back to the capital before going to New York to lead the U.S. delegation to the United Nations in the fight to prevent Communist China from winning membership in the U.N.

SAILING, SAILING, OVER THE BOUNDING POTOMAC. President and Mrs. Eisenhower are all smiles as they make good on a promise to take their three grandchildren for a boat ride on the Potomac River, down to Mount Vernon and back. Children are Dwight David, 6, who gets into a nautical spirit with a life preserver; Susan, 2; Barbara Ann, 5. With back to camera is Ellen Moore, 12, daughter of Mrs. Eisenhower's sister.

Farm Program To Benefit All, President Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower voiced great satisfaction with Senate passage of his farm program today, but declared emphatically he does not regard it as a political victory.

He said yesterday's vote, giving him the flexible price support system he has fought for, should be regarded as just another step in a program designed for the welfare of the American farmer and for a healthy, stable economy benefitting all Americans.

The President said there are several discrepancies between Senate and House versions of the legislation he would like to see ironed out in conference.

These include, he said, a dual price plan for wheat, and a wool program with no time limit. And he said he'd like to see the final version leave the dairy price support program as it is — that is with the 75 per cent of parity figure recently established by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

The Senate vote assured the administration of enactment of a plan which would permit farm price supports to be moved up or down as stocks vary.

Both houses adopted a variable range of supports between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity, so that question will not be at issue in the conferences to iron out differences between House and Senate bills.

The Senate voted 62-28 for final passage of the measure once given no better than a 50-50 chance.

Sweeping Victory

Eisenhower earlier described as a sweeping victory a House vote in favor of flexible supports to range between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity, although he had asked originally for a 75-90 per cent range

The Senate Monday night okayed the same 82½-90 per cent range passed by the House, so that will not be an issue in the conference committee, but there are a number of other points of difference which must be ironed out Approval of the compromise by both branches is needed to send the measure to the White House.

Differ on Dairy Products

"Our toughest job will be acceptance of the Senate version of supports on dairy products," said Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and head of its conferees

After a hard-fought Senate floor fight, Aiken won approval of the order of Secretary of Agriculture Benson for a reduction to 75 per cent of parity in government supports on butter, cheese and dried milk The order took effect last April 1, and the House voted to lift

Ike Opposes Cutting Formal Ties With Reds

Breaking Diplomatic Relations Would Not Help U.S., He Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today the United States could not possibly serve its interests by severing diplomatic relations with Russia

The President also told a news conference the free world is building up a structure which he believes will be impervious to any Communist assault.

No Preventive War

As for waging a preventive war against the Communist world, as some people have urged, Eisenhower said there is no such thing as a preventive war—that it would be unthinkable for this country to undertake such a project.

Eisenhower's remarks came in connection with a request for comments on views expressed by Gen. Mark W. Clark.

Clark, retired former U S. commander in the Far East, told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee yesterday that he favored breaking relations with Russia and reorganizing the United Nations to exclude the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower said he feels that, in general, many world tensions have eased in the last couple of years and the free world now has a better chance than before to obtain a solid peace.

Atomic Strike

The conference also touched on these other matters:

ATOMIC-LABOR — The President said he favors using all possible legal devices to avert a threatened strike at atomic plants in Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky. This was in reply to a question as to whether he plans to ask Atty. Gen. Brownell to seek a strike-blocking injunction under the Taft-Hartley law.

Paducah production workers voted last night to go out on strike tomorrow and the situation at Oak

Voting Plan Shifted

Marion Township, Sixth Ward Precincts Changed

Approval of five new precincts, three in the city and two in the county, was given by the Marion County Board of Elections when it met Tuesday evening in the Courthouse

Under the new set-up, the sixth ward will have nine precincts instead of the former six, and Marion Township will operate under four precincts instead of two.

THE REPRECINCTING culminated a study begun by the board in March after it decided arrangements were needed as promptly as possible after the May primary election to re-arrange the overloaded precincts of the city and county. The sixth ward and Marion Township North and South, having the greatest overload, were selected for first attention.

Recommended maximum of voters assigned to a precinct is 400, while Marion Township South, for example, had 947. With the new precincts, the average voter-load to each precinct is 375, elections officials report.

Addition of the five new precincts brings the total number of precincts in Marion County to 60

Maps and details are on file in the office of the Board of Elections on the ground floor of the Courthouse. Residents may inspect them there between the hours of 8 30 and 11 30 a m and 1 to 4 30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8.30 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

The changes in the precincts will become official after a 10-day period during which objections, if any, from precinct residents can be received by the board.

IT IS THE board's intention to continue rearranging other overcrowded precincts as time permits after the November election.

Listed below are the new boundaries for the sixth ward and the four precincts of the Marion Township ward.

Wallace's '48 Running Mate Wins in Idaho

Ex-Sen. Glen Taylor Nominated; To Face Dworshak in Election

Former Sen Glen Taylor, the one-time singing cowboy who campaigned for the vice presidency in 1948 with Henry A. Wallace on the Progressive Party ticket, won the race for the Democratic Senate nomination in Idaho Tuesday.

In Nebraska, Rep. Carl T. Curtis defeated Gov. Robert Crosby in the feature Republican Senate race.

Cherry Loses Bid

And in Arkansas, Gov. Francis Cherry, apparently lost his bid for renomination.

Taylor, trying for a political comeback, defeated state Rep. Claude Burtonshaw, a college professor, for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Sen. Harry C Dworshak easily won renomination in the Republican primary in Idaho.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for governor of Arkansas, which is equivalent to election, Cherry apparently lost by less than 5,000 votes to Orval Fabus, a weekly newspaper publisher.

Curtis won Nebraska's GOP nomination to a 6-year Senate term while Arkansas publisher Orval Faubus led Cherry in their Democratic runoff for governor. Barring major upsets, nominations in both contests are tantamount to election

Delaware Democrats also named November candidates yesterday. The party convention renominated Sen. J. Allen Frear Jr. over the opposition of some state party leaders who contended he is too "conservative."

Nebraska voters named candidates for three Senate seats in a rare competition caused by the deaths earlier this year of Senators Hugh Butler and Dwight Griswold. The present senators, serving by appointment, did not seek election.

Curtis, an eight-term House member, topped Crosby and five other candidates in the most important of the three contests The others were for (1) the remaining

Officially Over

War in Indochina Ends With Final Cease-Fire

SAIGON (AP)—The fifth and final cease-fire in Indochina took effect today, officially ending the world's last active war. But the peace stirred no fanfare in this capital city of South Viet Nam.

Commanders of the French Union troops and the Communist-led Vietminh ordered their opposing forces to lay down their arms in South Viet Nam at 8 a.m.

Just a Formality

The order was mostly a formality. Fighting had tapered off since the cease-fire became effective two weeks ago in North Viet Nam.

The Geneva agreement to end the eight-year-old war called for truces in five stages to enable the Vietminh to get word to their scattered guerrillas.

After the North Viet Nam cease-fire July 27, the armistice reached Central Viet Nam Aug 1. It became effective in the kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia Aug. 6 and 7.

No Holiday

Today, in this city of two million French, Vietnamese and Chinese, police and military stood at the alert to counter expected Vietminh demonstrations. Armed with tommy guns, they kept a watchful eye on pedestrians and motor traffic.

Military helicopters hovered low.

Otherwise, the day seemed like any other. It was no holiday and there were no outward signs of either rejoicing or sadness.

The final truce today in South Viet Nam marked one of the few

17 Selected, 70 Nominated for Charter Work

Group Will Handle Education of Public In Bid for Majority

Some 17 persons present Tuesday night at a public meeting agreed to participate on a citizens committee for the promotion of the proposed charter for Marion

The persons agreed to serve on a committee which would try to educate and sell the general public on the advantages of the charter.

Another 70 names were suggested by the group present at the meeting held at the YMCA as prospective members of the committee. Those 70, plus the persons who signed last night, and the members of the original study committee which began the task of getting the charter commission started, will be invited to attend an organizational meeting next Monday at the Y

Chairman of the Charter Commission, Walter Moore, presided at the meeting Tuesday night. He told the audience the task of educating the public was up to those persons who desired to see the measure passed by the electorate in November.

Moore said the gathering of the people last night was his last official act as chairman of the Charter Commission. He told them the job was now up to them.

He said the interest shown so far by local clubs and organizations indicated a great deal of work must be done in order to assure passage of the Charter.

The Charter needs a simple majority in the November election to pass. The persons who will meet next week will form a committee to talk to the people, their clubs, and organizations trying to explain the contents of the charter and the reasoning behind putting those measures into effect.

Moore said he himself and most of the Charter Commission members would probably be available

Embassy Preparing Big Dinner After Reds Entertain Attlee, Bevan

MOSCOW (AP)—The British embassy polished up its best china, silver and glass today for Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

The No. 1 Russian makes an unprecedented appearance tonight at an embassy banquet honoring former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee and six other Labor party leaders visiting Moscow en route to a three-week stay in Communist China

Malenkov and other top Soviet leaders set the pace for Attlee's top-drawer reception—the biggest given a Western delegation since World War II—with a four-hour dinner party last night at the country home of the late famed Russian writer Maxim Gorky.

The British guests described the atmosphere as one of greatest affability. After dinner Malenkov strolled into the garden with the only woman visitor, Dr. Edith Summerskill, and picked her a bouquet of phlox and gladioli.

The Russians whisked the Laborites and British Ambassador Sir William Hayter off to the Gorky villa, 22 miles from Moscow, only two hours after they arrived in the Soviet capital by Russian

Bellefontaine's Mayor To Run Against Brown

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Democratic Mayor G. Louie Wren of Bellefontaine will oppose Republican Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester in the race for the 7th District seat in the House of Representatives in the Nov. 2 election.

Wren was the unanimous choice of the Democratic leaders of the district who met last night to pick a successor to Dr. Charles West of Lebanon. West withdrew from the race last week because of illness

Thirteen of the 16 Democratic central committee chairmen and secretaries from the eight-county district met at Springfield's Shawnee Hotel to pick West's successor Under Ohio law, when a candidate withdraws after the primary his successor may be named by party district central committee.

Wren had indicated before last night's meeting he would readily accept the nomination if offered it.

Wren is serving his second term as mayor of Bellefontaine, Logan County seat. Other counties besides Logan in the district are Clark, Champaign, Greene, Union, Clinton, Warren and Madison.

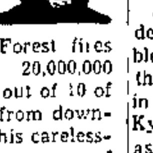
Care, Thoughtfulness Aid In Forest Fire Decrease



Thanks to the care and thoughtfulness of Americans, fewer and fewer of our forests are being lost to fire. But the job of eliminating man-caused forest fires is far from done. Forest fires still burned over 20,000,000 acres in 1953, and 9 out of 10 of these fires resulted from downright carelessness. This carelessness meant the destruction of vast areas of timber, watersheds and recreation. Help to reduce this shameful waste. The next time you are in or near the woods, "Remember Only You Can Prevent Forest Fires."

Discussion on Wages Of City Employes Held

GALION — Two emergency measures were passed at an adjourned meeting of city Council Tuesday night.

One was an ordinance authorizing the proper city officials to employ the Finance System of Galion, a collecting agency, on a contingent basis to collect delinquent accounts of Galion City Hospital Rules were suspended to give the ordinance second and third readings, for a vote, when it was declared an emergency measure

The other ordinance, also passed in the same manner authorizes the service director to advertise for bids and enter into contract with the lowest and best bidder for the purchase of necessary equipment for the garbage grinder at the sewage dispoal plant Money for this purpose will be taken from the sewage disposal fund of the city when city finances are improved and the money is available

The city received a protest from a property owner on Kelley Ave on the assessment estimated for the proposed sanitary sewer improvement on the street

Following the meeting City Council met as a committee with heads of various city departments to discuss wages City light plant and water plant employes on July 20 asked for pay hikes at that time and the fire department also has requested adjustments.

ICC To Reopen Proceedings in Rate War Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission says it will reopen proceedings in the rate war case involving iron ore shipments from East Coast ports to inland steel mills

The commission last Feb 16 ruled on the rate war among eastern railroads which started competitive slashes on the cost of hauling the imported ore in order to get a larger share of the booming foreign business

Railroad rates from Baltimore to the milling area of Steubenville Ohio Youngstown Ohio, and Wheeling, W Va were originally 20 cents a ton under those from Philadelphia and 60 cents under those from Boston and New York

When the railroads serving ports other than Baltimore attempted to lower their charges to the Baltimore level, the ICC set a formula calling for the establishment of Philadelphia and Baltimore rates on an equal level with rates fixed at 60 cents a ton below those applying to Boston and New York for delivery to the eastern Ohio steel mill district

The ICC said higher rates from New York and Boston were justified by the longer haul from those ports The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the Erie Railroad, the New York Central Railway, the New York Port Authority the Boston and Maine and New Haven Railroads, the city of Boston and the Boston Port Authority asked reconsideration of the decision

Education

By George Sokolsky

It used to be that the beginning of an education in the United States was a simple matter, locally controlled, directed mostly by parents and conducted principally by clergymen and unmarried women. The boys and girls were taught to read and write Greek and Latin, memorized vast amounts of literature, learned some French, German and the basis of science.

SOKOLSKY

If they desired to push their fortunes further, they specialized in some profession, sometimes going to a European university for the purpose. We produced a remarkable lot of scholars that way.

Since the days of Horace Mann (1796-1859), education of some kind has been usual for all children in many but not all parts of the country and in some it has been compulsory.

SINCE THOSE days, the huge educational establishment of the United States has become strictly professionalized and secularized with a decreasing relationship of the parent to the school. As President William F. Russell of Teachers College, Columbia University, said:

"While legally the parent has the authority over the education of the child, in practice we delegate our power to members of school boards or legislatures who act as our representatives . . ."

One of the problems that faces educators is to define education. They have to ask themselves whether they know what they are doing. This has become an increasingly serious matter because public opinion is not so sure that education actually educates in the United States.

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, for several decades president of Columbia University in the days when such an official was not only an administrator but also a scholar, once discussed this subject

"Education . . . must mean a gradual adjustment to the spiritual possessions of the race, with a view to realizing one's own potentialities and to assisting in carrying forward that complex of ideas, acts, and institutions which we call civilization.

"In other words, education in a true sense has to do not only with the individual to be educated, but with the environment into which and for which he is to be educated . . ."

Further he wrote:

"He (the child) is not born into a new world, where nothing has every happened. He is born into a world full experience, some of the experience bitter, some magnificent, and he is entitled to know what it is about and what it means.

"That inheritance is fivefold. It is scientific, it is literary, it is aesthetic, it is institutional, and it is religious. Without them all he cannot become a truly educated or a truly cultivated man.

"He is entitled to know what those who have preceded him have accomplished, what their accomplishment means for him, and what he is to do in the world which their accomplishment has brought to pass"

THIS IS A full definition and would require that educators not only be philosophers and historians but also moralists. Without morality, learning the development of special intellectual functions can become a monstrosity in any society.

Dr. Klaus Fuchs was an educated man with private concepts of morality. He was capable of being a spy and a thief, just as the 992 page text of the Oppenheimer hearings provides evidence that Dr. Oppenheimer, who is one of the most learned men in our country, could lie about very serious matters apparently without a twinge of conscience.

Many serious-minded persons believe that only secular education is correct in our kind of country. They confuse the term religious with the idea of sectarian.

This is not only true of those who dislike all religion, but Catholics object to Protestant teachings and Protestants abhor Catholic teachings and Jews fear that their children might be corrupted by both.

ON THE OTHER HAND, many parents are concerned with the increase in juvenile delinquency, the lack of respect for parents, the noticeable pre-marital sex relations among high school students and many similar moral problems which are disruptive of family life and damaging to the individual's opportunities.

For several years now, Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI has been calling attention to these many problems from his specialized standpoint.

Essentially this is not merely a matter of the increase of crime; it is more a problem of education for moral living in a free society. Therefore it is a problem of education.

Aid to Reds

By Victor Riesel

MILANO

How would you like to have your boy — or any other American airman — flying high in the sky in an F-86 Sabrejet fighter put together for us by disciplined communist party members?

How do you like the thought of some of our military and naval personnel being dependent on the effectiveness of ammo, radar, minesweepers, spare parts and aerial craft produced for us by disciplined Communist machinists and skilled workers whose sovieteering unions publish factory newspapers urging their members to sabotage the U.S.?

You may not like it, but you've got it.

AFL observers here have been screaming about it for over a year. At least two U.S. senators have known of it and publicy denounced it eight months ago But our military purchasing missions have not shifted one dollar of some 400 million dollars worth of defense orders which we originally placed and are paying for in Communist-manned and even in Communist-managed plants.

In fact, millions of dollars worth of new orders have been placed by the military as recently as a month ago in plants where the anti-Communist workers are terrorized and picked around by the Communist-run unions.

THERE IS ONE recent series of U.S. purchases on record here which saw a 3 million-dollar order go to a firm dealing with anti-Commie unions and an 18 million dollar order go to a factory employing Communists who are members of the Soviet-run national labor federation, the "CGIL." The smaller order was not sufficient to guarantee long time production, and therefore we lost prestige among the anti-commie workers in the anti-committee plant.

The answers I get to my questions all add up to the same refrain: "These workers are not really Communists. They just vote Communist and pay their dues to the Communist labor federation, but they're nice people, different from the Russian kind."

Well, just drive across northern Italy, through the industrial belt and down into the Florentine area, as I have Around Florence alone 46 out of 50 industrial region mayors are pro-Communists.

They blaspheme the U.S. and our defense efforts every chance they get. They control the police, the communications, local transport and could throw up roadblocks — as they have in the past —which would choke off northern and central Italy at any moment, the signal is given by their cominform chiefs.

JUST PICK UP any one of the 150 factory papers published by the Italian Communist party's workers' cells, mostly here in northern industrialized Italy.

There is for example, the Fiat plant in nearby Turin There, according to official U.S. findings, 60 to 70 percent of the workers assembling the F-86 Sabrejet fighters for us, are Communist party members. Their cell has been publishing something called "La Lotta" —The Struggle."

That struggle, friends, is against us, whose fighting planes they are assembling.

According to a report Paolo Robotti, alternate member of the Central Committee, Communist party of Italy, submitted to the Comintern, "all or almost all workers" subscribe to papers like "La Lotta."

In this report, Comrade Robotti says that the purpose of these factory publications is to create "a situation in which these workers themselves begin to relate the conditions in their enterprise to national and international problems."

This means that the Communist F-86 jet fighter works at Turin read about the "splendid economic achievements of the U.S.S.R. and the People's Democracies, (and) resolutely and actively rally the masses to fight for settlement of international disputes by means of negotiations, (and) unmask the provocations of the U.S. imperialists who seek to prevent the lessoning of the international tensions."

YOU THINK EVERYONE of these nice Communist workers is going to turn out effective weapons obviously being produced for our showdown with the socialist fatherland"

Even if they're so inclined, they still must deal with their own Communist shop stewards who control their very bread and butter.

There are some 50,000 shop steward committees inside Italy's factories. These committees, in effect, run the plants.

Not too long ago there were nationwide elections to place workers on such committees. The Communists captured 63 percent of all places. These were immediately tied in with Communist agitation cells, which actually direct the Communist controlled shop steward committees.

Furthermore, our friends in the Italian intelligence services know that every detail of our latest designs, our secret improvements, our types of weapons for hot or cold weather fighting, our quantity and destination of shipments, all are immediately passed on to Communist headquarters by well trained "worker-spies."

Yes, our military orders roll into Communist run plants despite the protests of American labor representatives, despite the efforts of pro-U.S. Italian unions here and despite the efforts of the Foreign Operations Administration people in Mrs. Luce' U.S. embassy, which has no control over our military

A simple joint committee of non-Communist Italian labor leaders and U.S officials could solve the problem. But then you need officials who want simple solutions —or any solution, for that matter.

Carpet King

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

"It takes a damn good man to owe a million dollars," said Eugene T Barwick.

It takes a pretty good fellow to go on from there and earn a million dollars, too. On both counts Gene Barwick is quite a guy.

Now only 40 Barwick in five years has parlayed $4,500 cash into a 30-million-dollar yearly business in tufted carpets. This has given him a reputation of being one of the top boy wonders of industry.

While some rug manufacturers were using their product to deaden the sound of their own falling tears, Gene has built his carpeting firm to a point where it is now the fifth largest in the world.

"But we believe there is room for a 100-million-dollars-a-year business in tufted rugs and carpeting," he said, "and we are willing to be the first."

BARWICK FIGURES he can do this if he can make wall-to-wall carpeting customary in the American home, and if he can mass produce carpets cheaply enough so that a housewife will feel she can afford to change them every time she changes her draperies.

Small tufted cotton rugs boomed during the war period, but many manufacturers thought housewives no longer would buy them when wool was more plentiful.

"They liquidated," said Barwick, "and they were wrong."

In 1948 Gene, who had served as a naval lieutenant in the Aleutians during the war, quit his job with a Chicago mail order firm. He had been buying its carpeting for years and felt he knew the kind women wanted—inexpensive but durable.

"I met a bedspread manufacturer who had gone broke for $70,000," he said, "And I taught him how to make tufted cotton carpets

"I had only $4,500 I invested $2,500 in a latex-coating machine that would keep the carpets from skidding. Then I took to the road and the other $2,000 went into selling expenses. Did it work? It had to work."

It worked so well that in mid-1950 the firm was doing a three-million-dollar business. The partner, deciding no good thing lasts forever, sold out to Barwick.

GENE KEPT right on expanding, went into debt developing new and more efficient machinery. Now he has five plants in Georgia, machines that can turn out a 9-by-10-foot tufted cotton, nylon or rayon carpet every 29 seconds. Weavers from Scotland and England come to study his new techniques.

"The worst thing a fellow can do is to worry about being exposed" said Barwick. "Why watch a parade if you can be in it? And if you get in it, you might as well try to lead it. But you have to remember—it takes a damn good man to owe a million dollars"

Gene has an honest enjoyment in his success, his fine home in Atlanta, his three children. He likes to golf, too, but last year he traveled 140,000 miles himself selling his carpeting—although he has 30 salesman on the job.

"I believe I talked to four times as many rug buyers and dealers as any other mill executive in the country," he said.

"Any man ought to work hard if he owns his own business. That's what is wrong with too many businesses today—they are run by professional managers who don't even own stock in their own concerns"

Barwick, who once played end at the University of North Carolina and still looks like he could get down the field under a long pass, flies about in his own plane.

"Riding in a plushed-up airplane gives me the same kick some men used to get out of having a private railroad car," he said, smiling.

"I call my plane "The Remnant" —because any good carpet man knows his profits are tied up in remnants."

Boy Who Couldn't Stop Bleeding on Way to Recovery

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Little Eddie Philips wants to go home.

The six-year-old lad, apparently on the road to recovery after a long siege of almost continuous bleeding which followed removal of his tonsils Aug. 6, said the first words yesterday since the bleeding started.

"I want to go home" said Eddie in a weak, high-pitched voice

And he may get his wish before too long

Physicians reported today they had closed off the tubes through which Eddie has been breathing He now is breathing in a normal manner but physicians left the tubes in his throat in case his condition should become worse. He still is being fed through the nose, however.

Although Eddie has had scores of blood transfusions it hasn't been necessary to give him any blood since Aug. 1.

Youth Seeking Religion, Club Members Told

Dean Ludwig, Former Harding, College Grid Star, Addresses Rotary

The youth of today is looking for a living, dynamic, aggressive type of religion to serve as a beacon in today's troubled times, Dean Ludwig of Marion told the Marion Rotary Club at the Hotel Harding Tuesday noon.

A former Harding High School football star and presently a student at the University of Michigan, Ludwig spoke on the topic, "Youth Looks at Religion."

Young people desperately are looking for a true insight into religion but too few are finding it, the speaker said. Churches and their members face a major task in making religion live for young people, he declared.

Adults must lead the way in "carrying the ball" for religion, Ludwig said. The project must begin in the church and youth must be drawn into the churches, he asserted, not only for worship but activities.

The speaker was introduced by Arthur L. Haas, Rotary program chairman for August.

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were Carl L. Robinson of Garden City, N. Y., and Philip S. Royer of Westminster, Md. Guests included Joe Mowery of Richwood and W. B. Ward, Marvin Ludwig and Richard Mickley, all of Marion.

Primaries

four years of Butler's term and (2) the last two months of Griswold's term. There were 31 entrants in the three races—24 of them Republicans.

Nominees for the 4-year term were unopposed in the primary. They are Republican Rep. Roman Hruska and Democratic Atty. James Green, both of Omaha.

Winners of short-term nominations are Mrs. George Abel of Lincoln, a Republican businesswoman, and William H. Meier of Minden, state Democratic chairman.

For the last 14 years, a Republican nomination in Nebraska has been just about the equivalent of election.

In the races for governor, former Mayor Victor E. Anderson of Lincoln was named the GOP candidate and former state party chairman William Ritchie won the nod from the Democrats.

Victories also went to all House members seeking renomination.

With more than three-fourths of the Idaho vote counted, the Taylor Burtenshaw contest was still undecided. But there was no doubt of Dworshak's victory. He overwhelmed his only challenger.

Traffic Cases

Five persons were fined a total of $340 on various traffic charges when they appeared in Marion Municipal Court yesterday.

Largest of the fines was levied against Charles L. Morgan 26, of 1025 Bennett St. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail on a charge of operating a motorcycle while his license was suspended. A fine of $15 and costs on a charge of speeding against him was suspended.

Francis Sauer, 34, of 613 Ballentine Ave. was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to five days in the county jail and given a three years' suspension of his driving rights on a drunken driving charge. Willard Cox, 39, of 148 Plymouth St. was fined $25 and costs and given a year's suspension of his driving rights for speeding on a motorcycle.

Other dispositions follow:

James H. Berry, 32, of 866 Garfield St., left of center, fined $15 and costs, fine and costs being suspended; and Cecil Pierce Jr., 25, of Cleveland, left of center, fined $15 and costs.

Trail of Four Who Fled Jail Grows Colder

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The trail of four jailbreakers, one tagged dangerous, grew colder today after the finding of a car that at first was believed stolen by the fugitives.

The stolen car was located so close to the jail that Sheriff Clarence E. Eberts concluded it was not stolen by the four men who cut their way through the 100-year-old jail's roof about 2:30 a. m. Tuesday.

More than a half dozen "leads" were tracked down yesterday to no avail, Eberts said.

Ray Mossberg, 29, of McKeesport, Pa., who was awaiting trial on charges of armed robbery, was labeled by the sheriff as the dangerous member of the quartet. Mossberg was accused of holding up a theater here last March, and subsequently was sent to Lima State Hospital for observation. He was returned from Lima July 3 with a report that he was "absolutely sane," Sheriff Eberts said.

The other three, all from this area, were John Manos, 19, of Smithfield, held for violating a parole from a sentence for breaking and entering; Mike Roshak, 40, of Tiltonsville, charged with assault and battery resulting from a quarrel with his wife; and William Robinson, 30, of Steubenville, who was held for the grand jury on a breaking and entering charge.

Three other prisoners in the third-tier cell block did not attempt to flee through the hole which the men sawed in the metal roof.

dairy supports to 80 per cent of parity on Sept. 1.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, said by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Some congressional leaders believe the House vote to raise dairy supports again helped win a compromise there on flexible supports between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity on five basic crops: cotton, wheat, corn, rice and peanuts.

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—John A Tice, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C Tice of near Lima, drowned yesterday in a farm pond near his home.

Marion School Cafeteria Staffs Visit Workshop

Nine Marion City School lunchroom workers attended the fourth annual School Lunchroom Workshop recently at Miami University.

The Marionites were among approximately 150 employes from throughout the state at the meeting. Headed by Miss Helen Hutchins, city school lunchroom supervisor, the local group included Mrs. Ruth East, Mrs. Garnet Strickland, Mrs. Edythe Van Meter, Mrs. Louise Short, Mrs. Martha Haines, and Mrs. Effie Cole, all of Harding High School; Miss Adene Galladay, Pearl St.; and Mrs. Grace Eagans, Edison Junior High.

Wade D. Bash, Ohio Supervisor of Public School Lunch, directed the workshop, assisted by Mrs. Evalyn Nameth, assistant professor of home economics at Miami. Clyde Hissong, State Supervisor of Education, attended one day's sessions.

The importance of the Type A lunch to school children was stressed at the workshop. The Type A lunch, which gives one-third to one-half of the day's nutritional requirements, includes one-half pint of whole milk; two ounces of meat, fish, poultry, cheese, or one egg or four tablespoons of peanut butter or one-half cup of cooked dry beans.

Also inluded in the Type A lunch is three-quarters of a cup of fruit or vegetables, two teaspoons of butter or margarine and a serving of bread. Dessert is optional.

Miss Hutchins gave a demonstration on wise buying, entitled "My Buyline." She said wise buying can be done by actual comparison of can contents—through weight, measures and number of pieces per can.

Insurance Beneficiaries Get Break

Tax on Annuity Income Will Be Lower

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than a million taxpayers will get a tax cut under new rules for taxing income from annuities or life insurance included in the giant tax revision act just passed by Congress.

Eighth of a Series

The new rules apply to income received after last Dec. 31.

In annuities, you generally pay so much a year to an insurance company. Then at a fixed age or year, you get back so much a year for the rest of your life, or for a fixed number of years.

The big question, taxwise, is how much of the money paid to you is simply a return of the money you paid in—and how much is interest or profit and therefore taxable.

Under the old law you first figured the total amount you paid in—the total cost of the policy to you. Then you were taxed each year on 3 per cent of that cost. The remaining annuity income was tax-free.

FOR EXAMPLE, say a policy cost you $10,900 and at age 65 you were to get back $1,200 each year for the rest of your life. Under the old law, 3 per cent of $10,900, or $327, would be considered taxable income each year. The other $873 a year would not be counted as income for tax purposes.

This would continue until the $873 of tax-free income a year added up to the cost of the policy, or $10,900. From then on — in this example from the 14th year on—you would be taxed on the full $1,200 a year.

This sudden increase in taxes was considered a hardship in many cases.

Under the new law, you first figure your total cost just as before. Then you figure your remaining years of life expectancy, or the fixed number of years, over which you are to receive repayments. Then you divide your cost by this number of years. That is the amount of income you can receive tax-free, and the rest is taxable

In the example above, say you had a life expectancy of 10 years, or a fixed 10 years in which the policy says you are to receive $1,200 a year, our total cost of $10,900, divided by 10, amounts to $1,090—and that amount of annual income is considered tax free. You would pay taxes on the remaining $110 each year.

These amounts would remain the same throughout—even after your had recovered the full cost of your policy, and even if you actually lived longer than your life expectancy.

Thus, under the old law, you would pay taxes on $327 a year for a while and then you would pay taxes on $1,200 a year. Under the new law you would pay taxes on only $110 a year throughout.

The new rules are offered in cases where an employer contributes much of the cost of an annuity or pension policy, to an employe. If the employe receives back all of his cost within the first three years of payments to him, he doesn't pay any tax during those first three years. Then after three years, he pays income taxes on the full amount he receives.

Experts estimate this would apply in 95 per cent of the cases where employers contribute to pension or annuity contracts. So the new life expectancy rules will chiefly benefit those who buy commercial annuity policies on their own.

There's one helpful provision in the new act. You don't have to go through complex arithmetic to figure how much of your annuity is taxable. The insurance company, when it starts payments to you, will compute your life expectancy and tell you how much of your annuity income will be taxable.

Another provision gives a big cut in estate taxes. Under the old law, if you paid premiums on a life insurance policy, proceeds of the policy were considered part of your estate when you died. Your survivors paid an estate tax on them. But from now on if you make the policy irrevocably payable to your beneficiary, it is not included as part of your taxable estate. This provision alone is expected to reduce taxes about 25 million dollars for about 10,000 taxpayers each year.

BUT ANOTHER CHANGE will increase taxes for some Under the old law, the beneficiary of a life insurance policy could leave the principal with the insurance company and receive tax-free interest in annual installments. Under the new law, this interest will be taxable for anyone but a widow. And a widow will pay taxes on any much interest which exceeds $1,000 a year.

You get a new tax break if yau decide to take proceeds from a life insurance policy in a lump-sum payment before you die, or if you get proceeds from annuity or endowment policies in a lump sum rather than in annual installments.

Under the new law, the tax on these lump-sum payments will be the same as if you spread the payments over three years Under the old law, the tax was figured for single year the payments were received. In effect, you now may get in a lower tax bracket.

More liberal rules also have been adopted for exchange of one insurance policy for another. Generally, any gain from these exchanges has been taxable in the past. In the future, most such exchanges will be tax-free. Except you still pay a capital gains tax on any gain from exchanging an endowment policy for a life insurance policy, or for an endowment policy with a later maturity date.

No Western correspondents were invited, but the British guests said the Russians talked at length with Attlee, left-wing Laborite Aneurin Bevan and the others in their party.

Attlee sat next to Malenkov at dinner, served on a terrace overlooking the gardens and a small stream. Labor party Secretary Morgan Phillips told newsmen it would be "safe" to conclude that the two men discussed the desirability of closer relations between Britain and the Soviet Union.

The dinner was accompanied by the usual exchange of vodka toasts —17 or 18, "some of them triple." Dr. Summerskill said. So many "I can't remember what was said," Phillips reported.

for speech making and for explaining to members of the citizens promotion committee the reasoning behind the new charter

Moore indicated that Dr. Frederick Merchant, who was unable to attend last night's meeting, would be the temporary chairman of the promotion committee until it could organize and elect a permanent chairman.

Mrs. Helen Axe, president of the League of Women Voters, was given the list of those who signed and the 70 nominations of those not present for the purpose of contacting them to invite them to the meeting next Monday.

Moore said he felt the members of the Charter Commission should not be asked to help formulate the policy of the committee, but indicated they would be willing to help in the promotion campaign.

Robert E. Kibbey said he felt the more persons the new committee could get to help promote the charter, the easier the task of winning public approval would be.

Persons who signed their names agreeing to serve on the promotion committee were, C. G. Wheeldon, Mrs. D. D. Myers, Mrs. Fred R. White, J. E. Oliphant, Perry Bachelder, R. T. Mason, Mrs. Paul White, Mrs. Dewey Yake, Mrs. Bertha Stewart, Harley G. Roby, Lucrecia W. Sager, Robert F. Kibbey, Mrs. Robert E. Blankenship, Roy Waddell, Robert W. Bergman, Mrs. Doris C. FARM—The President congratulated Senate leaders on pushing to approval a farm bill based on the administration's call for a shift from the present rigid price-support program to flexible supports. He said he wanted to make one thing very clear—that the administration victories reflected in the bills passed by the Senate and House were in no sense political victories.

Eisenhower called them steps toward a stable economy and therefore measures which will benefit everyone.

THE ECONOMY — The White House is preparing a report on the American economy as of mid-year 1954 and the report shows a very hopeful picture, the President said He added that the survey will be made public in a day or so.

In a related field, Eisenhower said he did not care to speculate at this time whether it will be possible to cut income taxes next year and balance the federal budget.

SPEECH ON CONGRESS—The Chief Executive disclosed he is at work on an address reviewing the accomplishments of Congress. He declined to shed any light on just when he will make the speech, and laughingly declined to say anything about such accomplishments until the session has been completed.

CABINET — The President announced he will be host Friday to the members of his Cabinet at his mountain lodge retreat at Camp David near Thurmont, Md., about 65 miles north of Washington There will be a light lunch, the President said, a buffet supper in the evening and swimming for those who want a dip.

At Tansonnhut airport, a few miles outside Saigon, French planes kept up their daily shuttle trips to Hanoi and Haiphong, bringing thousands of straw-hatted refugees to new homes here in the non-Communist south. French authorities said the planes are ferrying 3,300 persons a day.

Dr. Otto John

Adenauer government and charged a resurgence of Nazism and militarism in West Germany which he said would lead to another World War.

"I am permitted to speak the real truth here which I could not do in West Germany," John told the newsmen today.

Dressed in a blue suit and a maroon necktie, he spoke from a small platform decorated with flowers and the red, black and gold East German flag and bathed in newsreel floodlights. He spoke in a low voice, which occasionally showed signs of nervousness The entire meeting was conducted in German.

Attending the conference were former SS Col. Ernst Bormann, one of the top men in the Communist counterintelligence corps, and several members of his staff.

Early in his speech, John assailed the European Defense Community as a conspiracy to prevent the reunion of Germany and to erect a war machine. He promised to disclose details

He said the British have been trying to find a modus vivendi (way of living) with Communism "but the Americans will not permit it."

Tool of Americans

"The Bonn-Paris axis is only a tool of the Americans," he declared. "The Nazis and the militarists in West Germany are again in power and their old spirit is revived. They are in control of the government, of industry and even the universities."

In his prepared statement, John said not the slightest harm had been done to him or would be done in East Germany.

Using a German expression, he asserted, "None of my hair has been twisted or will be twisted here."

After reading his lengthy prepared statement, John answered questions from the correspondents

Asked when he first thought of going to East Germany, he said:

"The consideration which caused me to go over to East Germany had already been on my mind for quite a time. But I was still trying to find out whether there were enough anti-Fascist people to cooperate with."

He added, without elaborating, that "something became clear to me on July 20"

He was asked why he had not spoken thus at a news conference in Bonn, Copenhagen or London

He replied "I knew I had to stay in my own country if I was to remain active If I had said all this somewhere in the West, I would have been imprisoned"

Asked if he had expressed his doubts about the democracy of West Germany during his talks in the United States, John said tersely "No"

Asked why not, since it was a "good platform" for that, he replied they "should have been able to tell that from my attitude"

This may account for the fact that U.S. intelligence assigned Wolfgang Hoefer, German-born agent, to shadow John. Hoefer a schooldays' chum of John, committed suicide one day after the doctor's defection to the East became known

John said Hoefer tried to get in touch with him several times and finally they met in West Berlin on the 17th of July, Hoefer told him, he said, that he was disgusted over the assignment to spy on John and did not know what to do about it.

"This was the final incident that convinced me to go to the East." John said "I had played fair with the Allies but they did not play fair with me"

4 American "acquiescence" in Soviet Annexationist policy "extinguished the liberties of tens of millions of people" in Poland, the Baltic states, Mongolia, North Korea and China

5. These actions were a "misuse of power"

6. Socialist doctrines had gained headway in the United States, and elsewhere in the world; the Socialists "furnished the boarding ladders by which the Communists captured the ship of state"

7. Individual initiative, enterprise and courage are stultified by Socialist doctrine and practice

8. "Spies and traitors, when exposed, sought sanctuary for their infamies in the Fifth Amendment. Such a plea of immunity is an admission of guilt.

All contests are open to anyone who wishes to participate and anyone interested may contact the individual in charge of the particular contest.

The jubilee last year was a big success, made possible by the cooperation of the people of the community and an even bigger and better event is expected this year. Proceeds from the jubilee will go toward establishment of a community kindergarten scheduled to open this fall.

Ex-Marine Who Cannot Sit Down Gets Special Auto

LOS ANGELES (UP)—An ex-Marine who can't sit down now has an auto he can operate standing up.

The car was delivered yesterday to Kenneth Porter, 35, a Phoenix, Ariz., tax consultant. As a result of a war wound he is rigid from neck to knees, and does his work at an elbow-height desk. He eats standing up, and gets into bed with the aid of a hoist.

Porter bought a parcel delivery chassis some months ago, and ordered an air-conditioned body with special rear-view mirrors, a driving platform and a built-in bed. The vehicle has automatic shift, power steering and power brakes. All controls are hand operated.

The Aluminum Body Corp., builders of the body, made Porter a present of an elevator that gets him in and out of his auto. A radio for the car was presented by the AFL United Auto Workers.

Garver's Shutout Cuts Tribe Lead to Three Games

Garcia Picked To Go Against Gromek, Ex-Buddy, Today

DETROIT (AP)—Cleveland's league leading Indians, visiting Detroit in the wake of the New York Yankees, receive about the same kind of welcome from the Tigers.

The Tigers, who humbled New York in two games over the weekend, toppled the wigwam in a 4-0 shutout that whittled Cleveland's lead to a three-game advantage.

Meanwhile, the Yanks found Philadelphia an easy mark yesterday, winning by the same 5-2 score as the Indians did in completing a sweep of four games against the A's Sunday.

The proud Detroiters, in fourth place and 26 games away from the top spot, have won five of their 10 contests with the Indians.

Cleveland's Mike Garcia seeks to upset the balance in today's affair, the middle of a three-game series.

He pitches against his former roommate, Steve Gromek, who has won 13 games in 24 decisions. Garcia has the same number of victories, and five losses.

In the finale, Bob Lemon faces Detroit's George (Zinker) Zuverink, who blanked the Tribe 1-0 in an 11-inning game July 5.

Most of yesterday's event belonged to Detroit's Ned Garver who grudgingly gave only five hits to the Tribe, and refused to allow any Redskins to reach second base until the eighth inning.

Racking up his 10th victory, against seven losses, the 28-year-old righthander struck out six Indian batters and walked none, hurling his third shutout of the season.

He pinned the loss on Early Wynn, who lasted through the game and suffered his ninth defeat against 15 victories.

A crowd of 53,778—largest in Briggs Stadium since 1952—watched the Tigers get all they needed on a fourth-inning homer by Wayne Belardi. Wynn had allowed only two hits until Belardi, an ex-Brooklyn Dodger first baseman, cracked his 11th homer of the season.

Belardi drew a walk in the eighth, with one out, to start a Tiger rally that produced three more runs.

Experts Say Johnson To Be Defeated

NEW YORK (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, still a great fighter as he nears his 38th birthday, is a 5-8 favorite to whip stolid, young Harold Johnson in a 15-round title bout tonight.

The globetrotting 175-pound ruler, now a Miami resident, will be seeking his 19th straight victory when he steps into the Madison Square Garden ring at 9 p.m. (EST) against the muscular, 26-year-old contender from Philadelphia.

It will be the fifth scrap between the two Negroes in a series dating back to April 26, 1949. The first time the clever and experienced Moore floored the ex-sailor twice and won decisively. The next three were all close with Moore winning two and Johnson one.

Johnson's ten round triumph on Dec. 10, 1951 was Archie's last defeat. The strong-armed Moore edged the Philadelphian Jan. 29, 1952 and went on to sweep 17 other fights, including three title contests with Joey Maxim.

In building up a 12-fight victory streak of his own, Johnson, son of a former heavyweight boxer, defeated Ezzard Charles and Nino Valdes, the two leading heavyweight contenders.

Although the match between the two leading light heavies has been long awaited, the promoting International Boxing Club probably will be satisfied with a crowd of 9,000 and a gate of $30,000 at a $10 top. The telecast and the local radio broadcast will bring in another $50,000. Moore will get 40 per cent of the net gate and radio-TV money while Johnson is down for 20 per cent. If Johnson wins, he'll have to give Archie a return fight within 90 days at a 30-30 split of the purse.

Although he's been fighting 18 years and has had 141 scraps, this will mark Archie's debut as a Madison Square Garden contestant.

Valentine's Five-Hitter Beats Cubs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Corky Valentine, Cincinnati's rookie righthander from Troy, Ohio, outdueled veteran Chicago hurler Howie Pollet last night and the Reds took the first game of a three-contest series, 2-1.

Both allowed only five hits.

Frank Baumholtz, Chicago centerfielder, smashed Corky's first pitch of the ball game into the rightfield bleachers for a home run. The other Chicago Cub hits were scattered.

Cincinnati tallied its two runs in the fifth inning on a sparse two hits and some excellent base running.

Jim Greengrass started the fifth with a double which struck the number "9" on the scoreboard clock in centerfield. It was the longest two-bagger in Crosley Field for years. Then Johnny Temple bunted down the third base line, sending Greengrass to third.

Wally Post grounded to third baseman Vern Morgan and Greengrass slid home safely beneath Morgan's high throw. Temple hurried to second on the play and advanced to third on a ground out. In a great burst of speed, Temple scored what proved to be the winning run when Valentine grounded out to shortstop Ernie Banks.

Valentine was credited with the winning run batted in.

The victory gave him a .500 pitching record for the season, nine wins against nine defeats. He struck out six Cubs in going the route, the 21st time a starter has completed a game for the Reds this season. Corky has gone the distance five times, a better showing in this department than any other Red moundsman.

The second-division clubs clash again tonight and end their series tomorrow afternoon.

Cincinnati's victory lifted the Reds to fifth place, a half game ahead of St. Louis.

DOMINATION ENDS

CINCINNATI (AP)—The domination of Columbus in the Tri-City Women's Golf Tournament ended yesterday with a victory for Cincinnati over the capital city and Dayton. The Queen City squad piled up 40½ points to Columbus' 36½ and Dayton's 27 at the Clovernook course.

Stanky's Job Slipping Away As Cardinals Tumble Down

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Edie Stanky's chances of sticking as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals appear to be growing slimmer day by day.

Unless there is a sudden change for the better in the Cardinals' fortunes — and none is in sight—owner Gussie Busch is going to have to decide how much longer he can stick with Stanky in face of mounting opposition.

The source of Stanky's present difficulties is his pitching staff. He talked hopefully about his mound corps during the spring, especially after the purchase of Vic Raschi from the Yankees. But it hasn't been good, even at the start, and the staff has gone from bad to worse.

Raschi took his lumps last night in an 11-0 trouncing by the Milwaukee Braves. It was the seventh loss for the veteran righthander, who has won eight. Cardinal pitchers have completed only 27 of 110 games and only one this month.

The Cards sank to sixth place with the loss. Eight of the 10 Milwaukee hits when for extra bases. Del Crandall, Hank Aaron, Joe Adcock and Eddie Mathews all hit home runs.

Even with another two years on his contract Stanky must be mighty uncomfortable.

There was a lot of good pitching last night, too. Jim Wilson of the Braves gave St. Louis only three singles in winning his eighth game without a loss.

Johnny Antonelli and Marv Grissom combined in a three-hitter as the New York Giants shaded Pittsburgh 2-1. The Giants got only four safeties off Dick Littlefield and Johnny Hetki.

Lefty Mel Parnell of the Boston Red Sox scattered four hits in beating Washington 4-0. Ned Garver spaced five singles in Detroit's 4-0 triumph over Cleveland.

The Braves gained a game on second place Brooklyn which lost to Philadelphia 6-3, but stayed 7 behind the Giants.

The New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 5-2 and moved within three games of the Indians.

Baltimore whipped the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Cleveland's pennant drive was stymied temporarily by Garver, who lowered his earned run average to 2.21, lowest in the league. Wayne Belardi's 11th homer, in the fourth inning, provided the only scoring until the eighth when the Tigers ran wild on the bases.

Bob Grim gave up 10 hits to the Athletics but kept them scattered in becoming the first rookie to win 15 games this season.

Parnell's victory for the Red Sox was his first this season. The lefthander has been sidelined with a broken wrist most of the year. Ted Williams had a perfect night with two singles and two walks.

A day game between the Senators and Red Sox was rained out.

Most of Schoolboy Grid All-Stars Enter College

By FRITZ HOWELL

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's high school football jewels of 1953—the members of the North-South All-Star squads assembled here—will find new settings on college campuses all over the country this fall.

Of the 50 boys here for Friday night's ninth annual All-Star contest, and three others who returned home after being injured, 42 have made their college choice.

Ohio State University is the choice of eight of the talented youngsters, four from the North squad and four from the South. The big ones on the Buckeye list appear to be All-Ohioans Glenn Davis of Barberton, the fleet-footed halfback who recently won the state high school track meet all by himself; Dean Nicholson, 6-foot-9 "T" quarterback from Lisbon, and Eddie Breehl, standout center from New Philadelphia.

The 42 kids who have made up their minds picked 10 Ohio colleges and 12 out-of-state schools. Indiana gets two of them in Jack Nichols, a place kicking genius and fullback from Canton Lehman, and Bill Van Buren of Lorain, the all-state center.

Three of Massillon's six-time state championship team all picked out-of-state schools. Bruce Schram, tackle, will go to Corpell; guard Ronald Agnes will go to Brown and end Jim Letcavits will follow coach Chuck Mather to Kansas.

Here are the college choices of the other All-Stars:

Ohio University — Fred Meeks, Canton Lehman; Dave Kuenzli, Upper Sandusky; Richard Wray, Lockland; Jerry Keim, Urbana.

Indiana — Salvatore DiPietro, Canton Central Catholic; Ken Watson, Cleveland Euclid.

Ohio State — Ray Beerman, and Tom Crawford, both Toledo DeVilbiss; Jim Kater, Harrison; John Floyd, Columbus North; Leo Brown Portsmouth.

Kent State — Ronald Fowler, Akron East; Allen Karp, Cleveland Rhodes; Bryan Burke, Cleveland Rhodes.

Syracuse — Larry Reeves, Mentor.

University of Miami (Fla)—Ray Burton, Chagrin Falls.

Miami (Ohio) University — Jack Bourn, Springfield Twp; Stan Johnson, Springfield Public.

Michigan — Martin Testa, Akron St. Vincent.

Cincinnati — Phil Collins, Cincinnati Roger Bacon; Bob Rizer, Springfield Catholic: Ronald Council, Hamilton Public.

Otterbein — Delbert Thatcher, Cambridge.

Tennessee — Thomas Stockhoff, Cincinnati Hughes.

Indiana Tri-State — Bill Stevens, Marietta.

Michigan State — Dick McDonald, Middletown.

Capital — Charles F. Kessler, Coulmbus Linden McKinley.

Marquette — Robert Igel, Columbus St. Charles, Ronnie Whitcomb. Fremont Ross; Dave Kimmel, Youngstown Urusline.

Notre Dame — Frank Kuchta, Cleveland Benedictine.

University of Dayton — Don Zimmerman, Dayton Chaminade.

Youngstown College — Jim Vechirella, Youngstown Ryen.

Central State — Willie Simmons Warren Harding.

Eleven others have not made up their minds but may reach a decision before the end of the week, since coaches from 24 colleges scattered throughout practically every state east of the Mississippi are here for the week-long clinic preceding Friday night's contest.

Marion's FOP Team Scores Double Victory

Marion's Fraternal Order of Police swept a twin bill from LaRue and Caledonia - Claridon-Martel last night in County Teen League game at Lincoln Park.

The FOP squad nipped CCM, 4-2, and then came back to trample LaRue, 20-1, in a contest called in the fourth inning due to the league 10-run ruling.

Tex Burns hurled the opener for the winners, giving up only four hits to CCM over the seven inning route. He fanned nine while walking six and hitting a batter.

The locals clinched the win with three runs in the fourth after scoring their first run off Terry Gorby of the losers in the previous frame. Burns held the losers to a run in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Gorby, the loser, gave up only two hits while fanning four and walking three.

Marion turned a base on balls, sacrifice, and error into a third inning run and then scored three fourth-inning markers on one hit, a triple by Marlo Barrett, two walks, three errors and a field-error provided CCM with a run in the fifth and two hits and a hit batsman accounted for the other tally in the sixth.

Barrett and Pete Bailey had the two Marion hits while Barden connected twice and Gorby and Trimmer once for the losers.

Marion scored nine times in the opening frame and never let up in blasting LaRue behind the two-hit hurling of Kenny Ellwood.

Four runs in the second and seven in the third, on only two hits, concluded the Marion scoring. The locals took advantage of 11 hits and 13 walks. In addition, Hughes, the LaRue hurler, hit a batter.

Ellwood fanned seven in the four innings he worked and walked seven. Hughes was credited with one strikeout.

LaRue scored its lone run in the first on two hits but thereafter Ellwood held it hitless and scoreless. Following a walk, Ellwood struck out the next two batters but Herrick and G. Isom came through with successive hits for the lone LaRue run.

Dave Gallimore collected three hits including a triple and double to pace the FOP hitting attack. Ellwood and Garry Sanders each had two hits while Butch Simpson and Bailey also hit safely.

Carl's Reaches Semi-Finals in Galion Tourney

Carl's Auto Parts advanced to the semi-finals of the district softball tournament at Galion last night by besting American Tower Vets of Shelby, 2-0.

It was Sonny Taylor hurling the shutout, his third consecutive in district tourney play. Taylor, who allowed only two hits, had previously blanked Junior Order of Bucyrus, 1-0, and Perfection Steel Body of Galion, 2-0.

Taylor drove in what proved to be the winning run in the third when he doubled to bring in Dick Jones, who had also knocked out a two-bagger.

Taylor garnered his second hit of the game in the fifth and drove in the final Carl's run. Reefsnyder, who had singled and gone to second on a fielders choice, scored the marker. In all, Carl's collected four hits off Shelby pitching.

Carl's opponent in semi-final play Thursday at 8 p.m. will be Cochran Motors of Mount Vernon.

In the other quarter-final tilt Mount Vernon eliminated the last Mansfield team, Sons of Herman, 1-0.

Thus only six teams of the original field of 24 remain in the running for district laurels. Three are from Marion, two from Mount Vernon and one from Perrysville.

In a pair of lower bracket quarter final contests tonight, Mac's Trading Post of Marion will meet Sanitary Pottery of Perrysville in the 8 p.m. opener while Smitty's All Stars of Marion and Victory Market of Mount Vernon will tangle in the nightcap, at 9:30 p.m.

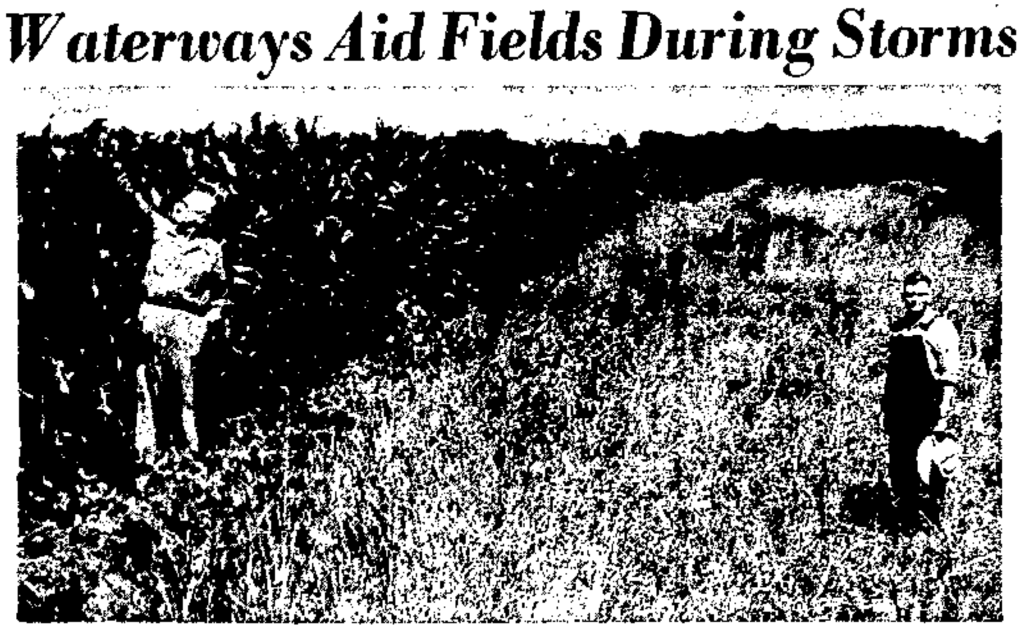
Waterways Aid Fields During Storms



GRASS WATERWAYS HELP farmers in the area convert potential floodlands into productive acres. They drain off excess water and relieve many a field in time of heavy rains. Waterways will be visited next Wednesday on a tour of farms in the county to which the public is invited.

UPPER: P. D. Hite of near Marion is several feet lower than W. L. Williams of the Soil Conservation Service. Hite is in the middle of a two-mile long waterway which runs through four farms, including his. Williams is examining the leaves on the corn plants which were saved from flooding by the waterway in a recent storm.

LOWER: These fields of beans are in no danger of flooding, thanks to the waterway which runs through them. They are located on the farm of Kensell E. Clutter of near Marion.

Grass Project Inspection On 3 County Farms Set Next Week

A grass-covered waterway is one of the cheapest, yet most effective devices many farmers have on their farms for the purpose of carrying off excess water.

Just about every farm, for which plans are drawn by the local Soil Conservation Service, has at least one grass waterway on it.

They run through the fields, usually following the natural slopes in the land, and drain into ditches along roadsides, or into locations where the presence of extra water will do no harm.

WATERWAYS will be seen by farmers in the county Aug. 18, when the Marion County Soil Conservation District, the Agricultural Extension Office, and the Soil Conservation Service will sponsor a tour of different waterways in the county.

Conservation officials point out waterways are well worth any time and labor which the farmer would put into them. During times of heavy rain, they drain off extra water which the ground cannot soak up, and prevent many a field from being washed away.

One of the longest waterways in the county is located north of Marion and runs through four farms. It is about two miles long and drains into the little Scioto River.

P. D. HITE, whose farm is the last of the four through which the waterway runs, said that several weeks ago, during one of the heaviest rainstorms in his memory, that particular watercourse, which is about 30 feet wide and about two feet deep, was running full for a day and one-half after the rains stopped.

He said without that on his farm, at least half his corn crop this year would have been ruined. As it is, Hite expects an excellent yield from his crop, with no danger of losing any plants.

Altogether, about 600 acres of fields drain into the one waterway. Hite estimated it would have cost him about $1,000 to hire labor to construct the drainage system on his farm but said he saved more than that in the one rain storm to which he referred.

THE USUAL WATERWAY is from one to two feet deep and from 15 to 25 feet wide. W. L. Williams, of the Soil Conservation Service, said any type grass can be planted on the bottom of the waterways. The grass acts to prevent formation of gullies.

Usually farmers try to keep the grass in their waterways clipped to help ease the flow of water along the path. However, during wildlife breeding season the grass is allowed to grow in order to afford shelter for nesting birds.

Waterways are constructed with a small slope. Usually the course is four feet wide for each foot of depth. This permits the owners to move their machinery over them with no danger of getting stuck or damaging their equipment

KENSELL E. CLUTTER, of near Marion, who has had about 3,500 feet of grass waterways on his farm, said they are well worth the work and time spent on them. His water courses, like those of Hite were filled to capacity after the heavy rain in June.

To the passing motorist, the waterways look like only a strip of grass in the middle of a field of crops. On close examination, however, they are found to be depressed below the level of the cropland.

In constructing a channel, the farmer must remove dirt from the length of the course. He shapes the waterway as the dirt is being taken out, making sure it is deep enough and has the proper slope.

After dirt has been removed, sod is put down or grass planted. Hite estimated it took him about 15 full working days to construct his part of the two-mile course.

CLUTTER, WHO has several shorter ones on his farm is still building. He has plans for constructing a new one and for making a cutoff on one of the already existing courses.

The tour of waterways will be the second this season under the direction of the three agricultural agencies. Last month, farmers went on a tour of farm ponds. The present method of having tours of one phase of conservation work at a time was decided upon in favor of the field days held in former years. Authorities felt the new plan would permit farmers to visit only farms on which the phase of conservation in which they were interested is present.

Those making the tour will meet at the Grand Prairie School at 1 p.m. To be visited are the farms of Hite and Clutter as well as the farm of Paul Cluff. Williams said those attending will be able to see waterways under construction on the farms as well as those which have been completed.

Latest Fabrics Good on Trips, Clothier Says

COLUMBUS — American travelers have never been so lucky, Miss Edith Berry, Ohio State Univeristy extension clothing specialist said today. Miss Berry referred to the new fabrics that travel so well.

Some of the wonder fabrics require little care. All they need is soap and water with only a touch from the iron, she said.

Many of the 1954 cottons are treated to make them wrinkle and crease resistant. The new cotton knits which are beginning to appear in the fashion picture will rate among traveling favorites, the specialist predicted. They pack well, travel well and require a minimum of care.

Dresses should include at least one suitable for an exciting evening; and a cardigan sweater will be too practical to risk leaving at home, the clothing specialist said.

Besides dresses, women travelers will always want a basic wardrobe that includes a suit with a change of blouses. It can take you sightseeing, as well as to other more formal occasions, she said.

To round out the wardrobe, tuck a favorite small hat for some special occasions, hose that are all one shade, and extra gloves. Shoes take packing space but take what you actually need Miss Berry advised. A change of shoes during the day will often give your feet a rest.

When buying clothes for a trip, Miss Berry reminded travelers to consider future use of garments as well as the weather and activities the vacation spot offers.

Turkeys Make August List of Plentiful Foods

Sweet Corn, Celery, Tomatoes, Cabbage, Beans Also Available

COLUMBUS — Turkey time moves up to mid-summer in the August list of plentiful foods announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Turkeys are expected to be available in abundance this month, especially young birds of the Beltsville breed, with plenty left for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Bartlett pears from Michigan and from the Pacific Coast states, also are given top billing by USDA market specialists.

In the midwest, homegrown vegetables, such as sweet corn, beans, celery, cabbage, and tomatoes, are expected to be plentiful because of peak season harvests which will be marketed.

Medium and small eggs are expected to be on the market in large numbers laid by pullets hatched in early spring. California will send large shipments of lemons and Florida will be supplying limes in abundance.

The heavy run of beef cattle to markets which usually takes place in the fall months seems to be earlier this year, because of dry weather in the range country, and the supply of beef is expected to be large. Chickens of two principal types, fryers and stewing hens, are listed too.

Milk and all dairy products, salad oils, vegetable shortening, and fresh fish complete the list of plentiful foods for the Midwest as issued by the Department of Agriculture.

To save dishwashing, mix salad dressing in the salad bowl before adding the salad.

SOMETHING EXTRA

LONDON (INS) — Don't let it throw you if you see a pair of men's trousers labeled "[illegible] Slackers". It's just the manufacturer's way of saying his street-style pants have a little something extra — plus-fours, to be exact. The conversion trick lies in an adjustable band hidden under the trouser cuffs. Golf, anyone?

3,000 To Visit Wooster Center On Dairy Day

Color Film, Women's Program Discussions Planned for Meeting

Over 3,000 Buckeye dairymen and their families are expected to attend the 27th annual Ohio Dairy Day at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster on Friday.

Sponsored by the Experiment Station, Extension Service, and the Ohio Dairymen's Association, the event will offer visitors a wide range of program activities.

Morning sessions begin at 10 o'clock EST with Fordyce Ely, chairman of the Station's dairy science department, in charge. An added feature this year will be "The Rumen Stroy," a color movie which shows actual pictures of a cow's digestive process. The pictures were taken inside a cow's stomach which had been opened and capped for research purposes.

Miss Miriam Bouic, Wayne County Home Demonstration Agent, will open the ladies program at the same time. She will present 4-H individual and team winners in a dairy food demonstration.

Other features of the ladies' program include a panel discussion on "The Most for Your Money in Dairy Products" with Dr. W. E. Krauss, Mrs. Tom Mykrantz, and Miss Bouic taking part. J. W. Harper of Ohio State University will discuss the qualities of good cheese.

Medina County extension agent Marshall Whisler will outline results of a dairy farm survey in Medina County during one of the morning programs for dairymen. At the same session, visitors will hear a talk on "Dairy Farming by the Book" by W. R. Tullis of Opekasit Farms, Inc., Hamilton, Ohio.

Different roughages for raising calves is the topic assigned to H. R. Conrad of the dairy science department, while J. W. Hibbs will describe a project with dairy steers for beef production. Hibbs also will demonstrate use of a Geiger counter in tracing radioactive iodine in the body.

Two specialists from Ohio State University, R. R. Starbuck and R. H. Pollock, will talk about bulk milk handling. The program in the heifer barn during the morning session will include talks on deep frozen semen, cattle genetics, use of cattle twins, and new ideas on preserving silage.

Tours of the Station's pasture farm are an annual feature of Dairy Day. They will begin at 10 a.m. and continue at 30 minute intervals until noon.

Features on the afternoon speaking program will be Dr. Fordyce Ely, chairman of the Station's dairy science department; Director L. L. Rummell, and R. K. Froker, dean of the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin. Harry Patterson, president of the Ohio Dairymen's Association will preside.

For junior dairymen, Station officials have planned a dairy cattle judging contest open to 4-H and FFA members. Announcement of the results will come at 2 p.m., prior to the close of Dairy Day activities. Two Wayne County Granges will have lunch tents on the Station grounds for Dairy Day.

ANNEXATION OKAYED

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—The City of Bellevue received a go ahead from county commissioners yesterday to annex 40 acres of York Twp where a 2½ million dollar housing development is planned. Homes valued at $175,000 are under construction in the township. The property owners who want their land annexed said it was the only way in which they could get water from the Bellevue city supply.

Ohio Farm Econogram

Report on Prices and Economic Trends
Prepared by Agricultural Extension Service

New farm bill provides for range of from 82 to 90 per cent parity support price for basic commodities except tobacco. Support on dairy products continued at 75 per cent of parity. Ohio farmers affected most directly are wheat and corn growers who sell their grain Former support set at 90 per cent parity for all basics.

1954 Census of Agriculture scheduled to start in Ohio on November 8. Agricultural Census is taken every five years. In most states farmers will receive questionaries in mail. The Census is a very important source of information for farm people.

Hog prices beginning downward swing: Increases in numbers to market came earlier than usual. More hogs now coming on market than year ago.

Dairy products market review — Market steady to firm during uly. Seasonal production declined faster than usual because of dry pasture conditions over much of country. Sales to Commodity Credit Corporation decline. Storage stocks of butter and cheese still at record high. Higher milk prices are of seasonal nature.

Milk cows on U.S. farms in June 1954 totaled 22.5 million head-about 1½ per cent greater than in June 1953. Leveling off of milk cow numbers appears to reflect less favorable conditions for milk production in recent months. (less favorable milk feed ratio with milk prices about 1-10 lower in first 6 months of this year compared to same period in 1953.)

—:—

More milk production in next few years probable as crop production controls take effect. Diverted acres program may cause more producers to feed more cows or feed better or both.

—:—

Soybean crushings for nine months of year beginning Oct. 1 were 172 million bushels. Compares with 184 million same period year ago and 194 million in 1952. Exports at record level.

—:—

Shorn wool production in 1954 estimated at 229.4 million pounds slightly under 1953 and 14 per cent under average. There were three per cent less sheep shorn but average fleece was 8.56 pounds, a record high. Other production was 9.7 million pounds (about same as last year)

—:—

Storage problem seems to be easing nationally. Still is an individual problem of each producer to make provisions for storage.

—:—

Weather for Ohio during August forecast for heavy rainfall. Temperatures near normal except in Northern and Western part of state where below normal temperatures are forecast.

Milk Drinking By Americans Shows Decline

50 Less Pounds Used Now by Each Person Than Ten Years Ago

COLUMBUS, O. Americans are using less milk than they did 10 years ago. Robert Pelley, Ohio State University extension dairy marketing specialist, says each person uses only 350 pounds of milk a year. That compares to 400 pounds a decade ago

The 400 pounds a year equals one pint a day. Pelley says nutritionists recommend a quart a day for growing children and mothers, and at least one pint a day for all other adults.

Sue Christian, extension nutritionist, says milk is one of our best sources of calcium. It's an excellent source of high quality protein needed by young and old alike; and it's high in riboflavin she adds.

She says people who have decided they don't like to drink milk can get it as ice cream, cheese; in soups, bisques, chowders, stews, baked goods, main dishes, salads, salad dressing and desserts; and in hot or cold beverages.

Contrary to some beliefs, milk has a place in reducing diets. Miss Christian says the protein, minerals and vitamins in milk more than offset its calories. Reducing diets approved by health and nutrition specialists keep the milk requirement high.

If people again start using 400 pounds of milk a year, Pelley says surpluses would disappear in about 18 months. To do that, each person would have to use ¼ glass more milk each day. If everyone used 1/3 glass more daily, surpluses would disappear in a year.

Around the Farm Beat

Marionites will get a chance to see a poultry farm in operation Sunday at an open house held by the Scioto Poultry Farm, north of the Marion airport.

To be held from 2 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., the open house will feature a tour of a hen house, holding 5,000 chickens, and an inspection of the egg processing department

John W. Jones, owner of the farm, said a demonstration will be given on how to tell when an egg is fresh. Everyone is invited to attend, Jones said. The farm is on the first road north of Likens Chapel, north of the airport.

A registered Guernsey cow owned by D. G. Arnold of Bucyrus, recently completed an official advanced registry record through the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

The Guernsey gave 1200 pounds of milk and 52 pounds of fat on three-times daily milking. The record of the three-year-old cow was supervised by the club and Ohio State University.

For the eighth year, Bouic Brothers of Marysville have qualified for the Progressive Breeder's Award, presented by The Holstein - Friesian Association of America. This honor, the highest recognition bestowed upon a breeder of registered Holstein-Friesian dairy cattle, has been achieved by only 25 Holstein breeding establishments in the nation.

The last production test of the Bouic Brothers herd in the Herd Improvement Registry program was completed Sept. 30, 1953, with the 48-cow herd averaging 85 pounds of butterfat and 12,717 pounds of milk in 305 days on two milkings daily.

The herd has also been officially classified for type and scored 83.3. The current award is based on a herd of 107 animals of which 57 have freshened. Fifty-six of these 57 were born and developed at the Bouic farm.

Honey Reports Varied, Claims Bee Specialist

COLUMBUS — Honey production reports are quite varied, according to C. A. Reese, extension bee specialist at Ohio State University. Some beekeepers have the largest production in several years, while others report little or no takeoff honey in the hives.

Reese says condition of bees at start of bloom last spring, quality of queens, and locality have had the most effect on production this year.

There isn't a season within the memory of the oldest beekeepers when reserve honey stocks in hives were as low as last spring. Many colonies starved within hours of the start of honey flow. Other hives were so weak they couldn't take full advantage of available bloom, he said.

Availability of bloom varies with farming practices in different sections of the state

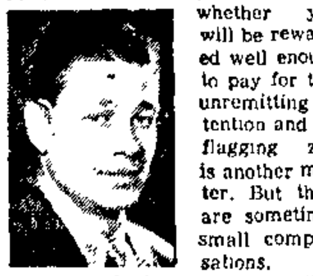
Two Masterpieces of Dullness

If you watch quiz shows long enough with unremitting attention and unflagging zeal, you will be rewarded ultimately. Of course, whether you will be rewarded well enough to pay for that unremitting attention and unflagging zeal is another matter. But there are sometimes small compensations.



J. CROSBY

The other night I was watching a little stinker called "What Do You Have in Common" which emanates out in Far Hollywood and by a miracle of electronics is carried over the Rocky Mountains clear across the broad western prairies and the wide mid-western plains to be spilled into thousands of New York living rooms — God knows why.

On "What Do You Have in Common" three people who don't know one another but who share some common link in their checkered pasts, try and guess what this common heritage is. The link can be a trivial one and usually is. Three guys, for example, who fell out of the same rowboat at various times. (Again I'm awed by the electronic wizardry required to send a moving picture from coast to coast of three guys who fell out of the same rowboat. What hath God wrought and why?)

WELL, SIR, three people — two women and a man — were batting things around, trying and failing to find any common bond they had ever shared. The moderator, a man named Ralph Story, tried to help them out with a clue which was a model of a transport airplane. At this, one of the girls — a little lollipop of a movie starlet —brightened visibly.

"Howard Hughes!" she said.

"Howard Hughes!" cried the other girl, hastily disassociating herself from any link with Howard Hughes. The lollipop, covered with confusion, withdrew Mr. Hughes' name from the proceedings. But it brightened my whole evening, which, heaven knows, needed brightening.

Now, if it was that kind of show, if someone had assembled three girls who had at one time or another shared Mr. Hughes, or maybe three ministers who had married the same girl to various men, or possibly three horse players who had all lost their shirts on the same horse — well, "What Have You in Common" might contain some shred of interest. But, no. Instead we get three guys who fell out of a rowboat.

I DON'T KNOW HOW many of these guessing games are now on television but there are far, far too many of them. I had thought we had long ago reached the nadir for sheer dullness and silliness in this form of entertainment. But then something like "What Have You in Common" comes along and teaches you that you must never underestimate the ingenuity of package producers to surpass one another in the matter of silliness and dullness.

I don't suppose this is the end either. Next summer somebody will come out with something worse, but until that unlucky day, "What Have You in Common" has a strong claim on the title: Silliest show on TV.

What distresses me is that some pretty respectable people are getting mixed up in these lamentable enterprises. Another fairly new show is called "What's in a Word." The moderator is Clifton Fadiman and the panelists include Faye Emerson, Audrey Meadows, Mike Wallace and Tim Moran, all of them bright and literate folk. But, brother, what a show!

THE IDEA HERE is to guess a word by association with other words. The first word the other night was "bride" and the associative word was "new." Well, sir, there followed a stream of double entendres: "This is something I have five of and change to keep from going flat." "This is something I like to curl up with at night." "This is something that roars and scratches." "This is something that is dangerous to let run around by themselves."

Well, maybe they're not planted but they sure sound that way. In any case, it's a real dull show. I didn't think it was possible to get that many bright and attractive people to sound that dull. It was quite a feat, all right

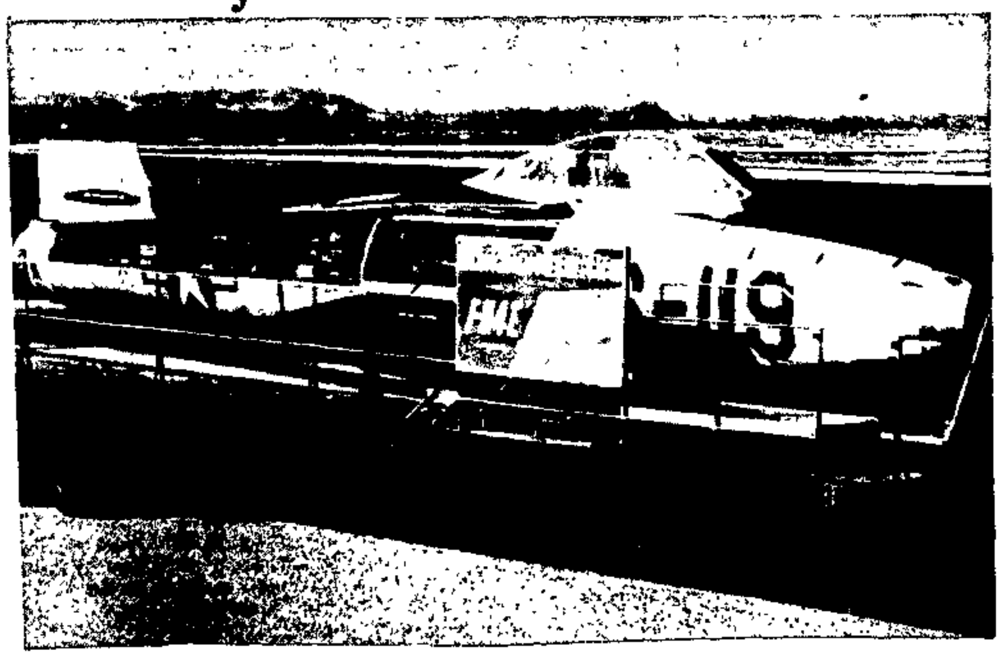
Thunderjet Exhibit To Mark Air Show



THIS SPECIALLY modified F-84 Thunderjet fighter-bomber will be exhibited by the U.S. Air Force in front of the Marion County Courthouse on Aug. 21 and 22 to spotlight the National Aircraft Show to be held in Dayton Sept. 4-6. Metal side panels have been removed from the jet fighter to expose to view its engine, flight controls and other equipment. Sgt. James LeRow of the local Air Force recruiting station reports that visitors to the craft can walk right alongside it on a special ramp on its flatbed trailer.

Three Ohioans Named to Polio Center Board

MAGNETIC SPRINGS — Three Ohioans were elected to the Magnetic Springs Polio Foundation board of trustees at a meeting of the trustees last week at the Neil House in Columbus.

Elected were: Miss Olive Huston of Xenia, Miss Grace Fern Heck or Urbana and Don James, Delaware County recorder. They will serve with the group which is currently engaged in raising $250,000 to establish a polio rehabilitation center at Magnetic Springs. The center will serve Ohio and surrounding states with a polio rehabilitation program similar to the one at Warm Springs, Ga.

Miss Heck and Miss Huston are past presidents of the national Delta Theta Tau sorority which recently made a grant of $25,000 to the Magnetic Springs foundation. James, who was once a patient at Warm Springs, was instrumental in organizing the first fund raising efforts for the new polio rehabilitation center here.

At the same meeting, an executive committee was named, which includes, Dr. K. W. Keever, Magnetic Springs; Robert F. Allen, Richwood; P. M. Curl, Richwood, Donald J. Hoskins, Columbus; Dr. Judson D. Wilson of Columbus; Sid R. Phillips of Columbus and Byron Frederick of Columbus.

FIRM TO EXPAND

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Grinnell Corp. will add 100-125 employes within the next two months when a 1¼ million dollar expansion program is completed, plant manager Fred Lund said. The firm now has about 600 workers who make prefabricated assemblies for power plants and chemical plants and automatic sprinkler fire protection systems.

About 91 million Americans have insurance which provides for hospital care.

Malloy Scores Feature Win at Richwood Oval

Bill Malloy of Springfield won the feature race at Richwood Speedway last night with J. L. Jones of Richwood second, Louie Louck of Marion third and Chet Johnson of Radnor fourth.

The feature race was started twice as Malloy, Gene Goodard of Marysville and Charlie Fox of Sugar Grove spun out on the first lap. All were able to restart.

Don Longbrake of Lima was leading in the feature on the last lap when he tangled with Jones and Johnson on the north turn. He was able to finish but lost his position.

In the heat races the order of finish was as follows.

First race Longbrake, Jones and Dick Britton of Marysville. Second race: Johnson, Fox and Charles Wilcox, Richwood. Third race: Malloy, Dick Grice of Marion and Goodard.

Longbrake took the winners handicap with Malloy second and Johnson third. The consolation event was captured by Louck, followed by Ralph Ray of Bell Center and Walt Hamilton of Richwood.

In the Australian pursuit race, Louck was the winner, with Longbrake second and Jones third. Louck and Longbrake were the only drivers left on the track after the third lap.

Corbin Pitches Indians to Win At Green Camp

Larry Corbin outpitched Louie Finch in a pitchers' duel as Marion's Indians nipped Green Camp 1-0, in a County Teen League tilt at Green Camp last night.

The lone run came in the fourth inning when Larry Coy delivered a double to score Eddie Kurz who had walked.

Corbin fanned 13 men and walked only three as he set down the Green Camp batters on three hits. Finch fanned 11, walked three, hit a batter, and allowed only four hits.

Kurz, Coy, Howard Gruber and Phil Carroll collected the Marion hits. Finch, Schultz and Bently banged out Green Camp's hits.

Next action for the Indians is Thursday night at Lincoln Park in a twin bill. Prospect will be the opponent in the opener at 6 p.m. while Pleasant will furnish the opposition in the nightcap at 8 p.m.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced vigorously today but lost some of its pep in the early afternoon.

The drive ahead put prices up between 1 and 3 points at the best. There were few minus signs at first, but they gradually appeared and usually were small.

The rush to buy came on the heels of yesteray's strength, and there was a flood of overnight orders when the opening bell sounded. The tape was late for a brief time in the first half hour.

The general pace was in the neighborhood of three million shares for the entire day.

Steels were favored and held to their advantage. Also higher were most railroads, motors, coppers, oils, movie issues, chemicals, rubbers, and utilities together with a long list of individual issues.

Higher stocks included American Telephone, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Southern Railway, Kennecott Copper, Texas Co., Goodrich, Grumman, Fairchild Engine, Lockheed, Mengel, and American Cyanamid.

Grain Quotations

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains and soybeans reacted strongly higher at the opening on the Board of Trade today. Senate passage of the administration's farm bill combined with a sharply reduced crop estimate to send all prices quickly higher on opening trade. May corn and all soybeans contracts moved up the daily permissible limit.

At the opening wheat was 2 to 2⅝ cents a bushel higher, September $2.10¾-11; corn was 3¾ to 8 cents higher, September $1 64-1.64½; oats were 1 to 2½ higher, September 74-73. Soybeans were 6½ to 10 cents higher, September $3 01½.

About half a million Americans have peptic ulcers.

Never to part again.

Number of Corporations Increases, State Reports

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lots of new business concerns want to call Ohio their home.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today the number of new firms filing incorporation papers is headed for a record if the rate for the first seven months holds throughout the year.

He added that the last quarter usually is a favorite period for incorporations when business prospects appear bright.

Total 3-958

New incorporations totaled 3,958 last Aug. 1, compared with 3,745 for the same period last year. The record was 7,111 in 1946.

They stood at only 4,724 in 1951 but have gained since. Two years ago they totaled 5,316 and last year 6,214. The low was 1,648 in 1943.

Brown said that since almost four years ago, Ohio has displaced Illinois as the fourth ranking state for corporations to make their start. Leading states are New York, California and New Jersey in that order. For a time Ohio ranked third and again is bidding for that spot, Brown observed.

George C. Farris, Brown's corporation counsel, explained why firms incorporate to do business. Under Ohio laws, the action limits liability of corporations to the value of their assets and insulates their stockholders.

In other words, Farris said, you can sue a corporation for business damages but not its individual stockholders. By contrast, individual owners and partners are personally liable in such suits.

Costs $25

It costs $25 and requires action by at least three people to incorporate in Ohio. Most firms incorporate under an agreement to sell no more than 250 shares to raise operating capital. It costs more to sell extra shares. Incorporated firms can sell additional shares later.

The shares usually are called no-par common stock. That means that the incorporators set the sale price of shares. Par value stock must be sold for the sum appearing on the face of certificates or more.

Once incorporated, companies are subject to a franchise tax in addition to the taxes paid by individuals engaged in business. But the protection of a corporation umbrella outweighs the lack of one in the eyes of most businessmen, officials asserted.

ENEMY WEEDS

PHILADELPHIA (INS) — Robert H. Beatty, president of the Association of Regional Weed Control Conferences, has cited the nation's "ten top public enemy weeds" and said they are robbing the U. S. of four billion dollars worth of food crops a year in addition to killing other plants and animals. The weeds are: Canada thistle, field bindweed, wild oats, giant foxtail, Johnson grass, nut grass, quack grass, horse nettle, mesquite and scrub oak.

NO KIDDING

CHICAGO (INS)—It may not be a gag when your friend tells you he got that black eye by walking into a door. Safety engineers for the Kemper insurance group report that a study of 10,000 industrial accidents show that 6.5 per cent of the mishaps occurred when persons bumped into doors, walls and other fixed objects.

Honolulu Mayor Says Portland's Claim False

HONOLULU, T. H. (UP) — A recent claim by Portland, Ore., to being the only city in the United States with an extinct volcano within its city limits brought a cry of "false claim" from Mayor John H. Wilson of Honolulu.

Wilson, saying that he always has thought of Honolulu as part of the United States, pointed to Punchbowl, Koko Head and Diamond Head craters, as a starting list of the extinct volcanoes within the city limits. And he added there are undoubtedly several others that "we have forgotten about."

"Trouble is," said the mayor, "a lot of people don't get around very much these days."

BORED SWINE

EAST LANSING (INS) — Dr. Jacob A. Hoefer—swine researcher at Michigan State College — says the reason pigs bite each other's tails off when crowded together may be that they are just plain bored. "In the cases that I have observed," declared the swine specialist, "the pigs always have been under close confinement — perhaps they need something more than just eating and sleeping to occupy their time."

Historic Indian Mill Dam Will Be Rebuilt for Park

UPPER SANDUSKY — The reconstruction of the historic Indian mill dam in the Sandusky River near Upper Sandusky has been started, marking the final phase of a six-year campaign by the Wyandot County Historical Society and civic groups here to restore the mill and grounds as a state historical park.

In charge of the restoration is Richard S. Fatig of Columbus, director of the state parks division of the Ohio Historical Society, and C. R. Webster, superintendant of construction.

The supervisor of the crew of men and machines working on the dam is Mervin Myers, an Upper Sandusky contractor, and the crew includes his regular employes, now employed by the state parks division for the project.

The new dam of native timbers, reinforced with steel rods, will be 200 feet long and four and one-half feet above the water level. Stone ballast is available near the site and the turbine-type water wheels in the mill race will also be restored to working order.

THE RESTORATION of the mill building and landscaping of the grounds will follow completion of the dam. The grounds will be arranged for parking and picnic facilities and the rebuilding of the dam along with the cleaning of the banks and channel is expected to restore the area as a favorite river fishing place. A large Buckeye tree near the building will be preserved as a feature of the landscape.

The original mill and dam were constructed in 1820 by the U S. government in accord with the provisions of a treaty made in 1817 with the Wyandot Indians. One of the provisions was the construction of a grist mill, a saw mill and a blacksmith shop for the use of the tribe that was restricted to a reservation north of Upper Sandusky in return for the land south of the reservation and now a part of Wyandot County, that was opened for settlement by the pioneers.

George Myers purchased the mill from the government in 1864 and soon after moved the building 50 yards downstream and rebuilt on the present site near the mill bridge that crosses the Sandusky River a few yards downstream from the dam.

A later operator, Frank Finkle, rebuilt a portion of the dam in 1928 and one of the nine and one-half feet planks from the original structure, in the water for 108 years, is preserved in the Wyandot Museum here along with several of the square wood pegs used in the original construction.

IN 1948 WARD W. WALTON, owner of the mill and grounds as well as a large farm adjacent, offered to deed the site to the historical society for a park with only one limiting provision, that the dam should not be made any higher.

Officers of the Wyandot Historical Society including Charles Artz, Ira Sterner, Harry Kinley and others, contacted Fatig and other directors of the Ohio Historical Society including Fred J. Milligan of Columbus, a former Wyandot County resident. Assisting the cooperative effort of the state and local societies, after a preliminary check of the site and its history was completed, Fred K. Cassel, Wyandot County representative to the state legislature, in 1952 introduced a bill that was passed to appropriate $15,000 to restore the mill and dam. In 1953 the site was officially accepted as a state historical park by the Ohio Division of Parks.

First operated by government employes for the exclusive use of the Wyandot Indians, the mill was converted to a private business serving the public by George Myers in 1864 and was operated by him until 1883. Other owners and operators were: John Finkle, 1883 to 1919, Frank Finkle, 1919 to 1930; and Foster Finkle, 1930 to 1941, when operations were abandoned.

Specialities of the mill during its six score years of burr-grinding production were corn meal, buckwheat and whole wheat flour.

Pet Monkey Tops Paratroopers, Jumps 1,100 Feet Without Chute

MADRID (NANA) — Spanish paratroopers said today that a bob-tailed mascot monkey had outdone her masters by jumping 1,100 feet without a parachute and emerging with only a broken finger and a small cut on the neck.

Men of Spain's crack First Parachute Battalion showed off "Chita"—which means, roughly, "The Debauched"—as she lay on a cot in the barracks at Alcala de Henares, 21 miles northeast of Madrid. The monkey looking lackadaisical, grinned at her owner, parachutist Lorenzo Bellido Gonzalez, but gave a bronx cheer to a reporter.

Chita hails from Spanish Morocco and was originally mascot of the Spanish Legion's Fifth Infantry Battalion, Gonzalez explained. The money trained with the troops, wore a Legionnaire's uniform and learned to march in the ranks.

When a group of the legionaires was drafted for parachute training. Chita came to Alcala de Henares with them, the paratrooper went on She took all the training but rebelled on her first jump, clinging to the ejector belt until she was hauled back into the plane.

Lieut. Juan Manuel Valverde, leader of Gonzalez's squad said that during recent training maneuvers, Chita was again scheduled to jump with her unit.

"I jumped last," the officer said. "We were flying at 1,100 feet. As she is naturally lighter than I, and her descent should therefore be slower, I was surprised not to see her. Then, looking down, I was horrified to see her body hurtling to the ground so fast I quickly lost sight of her

"When we landed," Valverde went on, "we went to pick up the corpse, and found Chita sitting on the ground very dazed but apparently unhurt. The battalion surgeon and two veterinary surgeons examined her They found one broken finger and a small throat wound.

"She was very weak, so they injected caffein and morphine She wouldn't eat and was very depressed. But she's getting better quickly."

Valverde said an investigation showed that Chita's parachute had hooked on the tail of the plane, ripping open the seam fastening the mascot's control ring. The monkey hit the ground with her harness still on.

Chita, with a talent for giving the Spanish military salute, shaking hands and smacking noisy kisses on the paratroopers' cheeks, at that point gave the reporter a sneer and a bronx cheer.

"It's because she doesn't know you very well," the lieutenant politely suggested.

Texas Entitled To Biggest Cut Of CAA Melon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration announced Tuesday figures showing each state's share in a 15-million dollar appropriation approved by Senate and House for federal aid for airports.

The money is included in a supplemental appropriation bill now before a Senate-House conference committee. But since both houses have approved the airport aid fund, the item is not at issue and CAA is making plans for apportionment of the money

In addition, the bill contains five million for high priority airport improvement projects but this is not subject to state apportionment, the CAA said. The appropriations will be for year ending next June 30

The formula for distribution of the 15 million to states is established by law on the basis of area and population. The federal funds are to be matched by local money

Texas will be entitled to the largest federal share of the 15 million dollar fund—$1,031,259. Delaware will receive $21,660.

CAA said applications for airport improvement projects will be submitted by sponsors to district CAA engineers. After reviewing the applications, the district engineer will send them to CAA regional offices. These offices in turn will forward their recommendations to the CAA here for a decision on which will be included in the program

The specific projects are not expected to be decided until late September, CAA said.

Ohio's share is $503,700.

Riddle for World Church Meeting

What Comes First: Here or Hereafter?

Can Christians hope to achieve universal justice and goodness in this world? It's the central question delegates to the Assembly of the World Council of Churches will be discussing next week. Here's a report on points they're likely to cover.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—One of humanity's oldest riddles — whether man's first duty is to the here or the hereafter—today poses a sharpened question for churches around the globe.

Second of a Series

It is being preached on, studied, argued over, read about, analyzed and interpreted.

It is being discussed in Sunday Schools and meetings and dealt with in scholarly papers and millions of words in the religious press.

"If the churches can speak on this with one mind, it is possible for them to bring guidance—and genuine hope—to a bewildered and menaced world" said Bishop J. Waskom Pickett, head of India's Methodist Church.

COUCHED IN THE PHRASE, "Christ—the hope of the world," the question is the theme of the two-week assembly of the World Council of Churches, opening here Sunday.

"The theme has stirred a greater response than anything in the world council's brief history," said the Rev. Robert S. Bilheimer, the council's associate general secretary.

At the heart of the question is whether Christians can hopefully fight for justice and goodness in this world, or whether those goals are deemed attainable only in a kingdom of God to come.

Is there any real hope for historical progress, however, slow or faltering, toward a Godly realm, or must man simply await a "second coming"?

"We are living in an age in which many rash hopes are being proposed," said Dr. Marc Boegner, a council co-president and head of the Reformed Churches of France.

"It is an absolute necessity for the Christian churhes to cut through these hollow faiths, and offer a new conscience and a true value—that Christ is the only hope — both for man and his community."

—:—

WHERE THAT HOPE and effort should be centered—on this world or the next or both—has rent the ranks of Christianity since day when the apostles thought Jesus might usher in paradise at once.

It has rankled through ages of subtle theological debate, flared into denominational break-ups, then been half forgotten, only to burst forth with renewed urgency in the modern era of ideological warfare.

The Scriptures abound with hints of the mystery:

"For now we see as through a glass darkly."

"But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in art shall be done away."

"There are principles and standards for human society, rooted in God's everlasting will, for which men can work," said Dr. G. K. A. Bell, Britain's bishop of Chichester and chairman of the council's Central Committee.

"But beyond man's greatest achievements or even his dreams is the kingdom—a new creation, a new world."

The theme involves complicated nuances of "eschatology" — the "end of all things"—and to what extent Christian ends can be gained in human affairs, this side of heaven.

BECAUSE of the subject's complexity and the age-old wrangling over it, there have been wide forebodings that it might deal the churhes a sharp setback in their quest for a more united front.

"The New Testament eschatology," says theologian Reinhold Neibuhr, "is at once too naive for a sophisticated world and too sophisticated for the simple-minded modern man."

Until recently churches seemed split geographically about the crux of Christian hope — with trouble-buffeted Europeans eyeing a "future kingdom" and "activist" Americans confidently scraping to set the present in order.

"But a lot has happened to American thinking," said Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, the council's American secretary, "and a lot has happened to European thinking. They have cross - fertilized each other."

Three years of conferences in preparation for the world assembly have contributed to a growing accord about the ultimate Christian hopes—and wordly aims.

"Our hope is anchored in a kingdom that both has come and is coming," said a 32-member council advisory commission, including such famed scholars and theologians as Neibuhr, Europe's Karl Barth and poet T. S. Eliot.

"If the church is to find complete fulfillment, and if earthly existence is to be saved from meaninglessness," their final report says, "we must look not only to the course of earthly history itself, but beyond it."

THE REPORT on which the Assembly will act, repudiates a theological pessimism which hopes only for the world's end, and it also warns against counting on any worldly Utopia and forgetting "the whole world lies under judgment.

"God through Jesus Christ has entered into the tangled web of human history," the report says. ". . . We see the gracious power of the kingdom already at work among men. . ."

But "even if our works fail and are buried in the rubble of human history, and though our bodies fall into the ground and die, nothing is lost, because he is able to keep that which we commit to him against the day. . . .

"We see the victorious Lord continuing his ministry of intercession and carrying on his warfare against every ruler of darkness. As we walk by his spirit we participate in his warfare, and participate also in his victory.

"In spite of assaults from without and flaws within, the church stands upon the rock and the gates of hell do not prevail against it.

"By God's ordinance and through his power, it remains witness, instrument and field of action for him while history lasts, and will stand before him at the end to be made perfect. . . .

"The church goes on its way ever looking to the heavenly city, knowing that it shares in the life of that city—even here and now."

A Marine veteran of World War II, Smith is married. His wife will move to Bucyrus as soon as they can find a place to live.

2 KILLED IN CRASH

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Carl Elbridge and William Smith, both 29 and both of nearby Fairborn, were killed late last night when their car veered out of control, skidded off Ohio 4 and hit a culvert near Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Civil Defense Unit Added at Chatfield

BUCYRUS — William C. Beer, Bucyrus attorney and civil defense director for Crawford County, announced today that a complete civil defense organization has been formed at Chatfield, north of here.

In addition to Chatfield, civil defense organizations have been completed at Crestline, Bucyrus, North Robinson an din six of the county's 16 townships.

Director Beer said the program for the closing months of 1954 calls for completion of similar organizations in the remaining municipalities and townships.

Village Discovers Need For a Woman Constable

WEST GREENWICH, R. I. (AP)—Mrs. Jewell McCrudden became this town's first lady constable today—because of a recent dispute between two women in a cafe.

Police Chief James G. Albro said that in the cafe hassle one of the women accused the other of having a knife concealed on her person. Police deputized Mrs. McCrudden to make a search. She didn't find a knife, but gained a constable's job to carry out similar duties when needed.

U. S. milk output in June, 1954 was 12,700,000,000 pounds.

Crawford County Gas Line Approved

BUCYRUS — Crawford County commissioners have approved a petition for right-of-way across county roads for a 20-inch gas pipeline in Jackson and Jefferson Townships, Vance Hoover, commissioners' chairman, announced here today.

Petition for the right-of-way was filed by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., which proposes to build and maintain the line through several county roads between the Crawford-Richland County line to Section 6 in Jefferson Township, where the line would terminate. The line will be constructed at a depth sufficient to clear all road drainage ditches and the gas company will repair all damages, according to their petition.

Total distance of the proposed line is about three and one-half miles.

Gamble Heavily on Stocks

Australians in Grip of Uranium Fever

SYDNEY (NANA) — Australia, like the western U. S., is in the grip of an unprecedented fever of stock exchange gambling and speculation, on uranium shares. The Australians also dabble in oil for an extra kick.

The casino get-rich-quick atmosphere of the stock exchanges in Australian capital cities is without parallel in the lives of the citizens.

EACH NEW report of uranium or oil discoveries sends share prices soaring to new heights.

Shares are now being issued for such small down payments that gambling on the stock exchange is threatening to usurp betting on the horses as the nation's spare time occupation.

At Mount Isa, Queensland, residents have gone "uranium mad" as negotiations near completion for the sale of the Mary Kathleen uranium lease at a sum reported to be more than $1,000,000.

The discoverer of the fabulous Mary Kathleen lease, richest in Australia, is in the hospital suffering from a heart attack brought on by the strain of the negotiations. He is Clem Walton, an employe of the Mount Isa Mines.

More than 2,000 uranium leases have been taken out in the district, with scores of new ones being registered every day.

More than 100 geologists are working in the "rush." Eight uranium and oil prospecting companies are at work in the area.

In Sydney, thousands of persons have become mesmerized by two words—oil and uranium. They are gambling on the stock exchange with their homes and their life's savings. They are not all big-time operators, but housewives, city typists, office boys and laborers willing to invest anything from $2 to $100.

Stock brokers say that every time oil and uranium are mentioned in the newspapers they receive hundreds of calls from small investors who want to know the meaning of the latest news.

Mrs. Rita Sinclair, teleprinter operator, of Randwick, typifies the new "all or nothing" fever. Last month she invested $100 in 100 shares of Australian Oil Exploration. The stock has since doubled in value.

"I was saving the money for new dresses and odds and ends," she said, "but I got a hot tip and backed oil. My husband was skeptical and told me to back horses if I wanted to win money."

BECAUSE MANY other oil and uranium shares have doubled in value in four weeks, Mrs. Sinclair is not going to sell hers until they have doubled in value again.

The gamble in shares began shortly before Christmas when oil was found in western Australia. Brokers say that small investors form at least 30 per cent of the oil and uranium speculators.

Dropping in at the Sydney stock exchange has become a lunch-time pasttime for investors. By noon the prices of shares sold during the morning have been chalked up on large blackboards along the walls.

Several brokers were mobbed and pushed from their seats during trading in oil and uranium shares last week. Heated arguments developed between some brokers as to who had made a sale. While they argued, the price of shares continued to rise.

All trading records for mining and oil shares were broken at Adelaide, Melbourne, Sydney and Perth Stock Exchanges this week.

Many uranium prospects have yet to be proved, but speculators are prepared to take risks in the hope that the fabulous rises will continue.

Brokers advise their clients against speculative buying, but as one said, "they just can't be told."

Shares of North Australian Uranium Corp., which claims to have found an extensive new field, rocketed from 50 cents to $3.50, although only 25 cents has been paid on them.

LITTLE HIGHER

WASHINGTON (INS) — Sir Edmund Hillary and Sir John Hunt, members of the British expedition which last year conquered Mt. Everest, believe the world's loftiest mountain exceeds 29,002 feet, its most frequently cited altitude. Sir John told the National Geographic Society he has the impression the peak is higher by 100 or 150 feet.

American Missionaries in Italy Forced To Preach Underground

MILAN (NANA)—An American religious movement has been forced by the Italian police to go underground, a spokesman for the group said today.

Bill Wengert, 31-year-ol leader of the Watch Tower and Bible Tract Society explained the situation in an interview

"Five of our American Teachers have been refused re-entry into Italy. They have been blacklisted as undesirables. And the police consistently refuse to permit us to hire a proper hall here for our services. So we have to meet in cellars, empty warehouses and other unsuitable places.

"I have been called to police headquarters so many times since I came to preach in Italy in 1949 that the guards no longer ask me for my identity papers. They just say 'Buon giorno, beel. Please take your favorite seat again.'"

Little Freedom

Wengert, a Philadelphian with a sun-tain gained on a house-to-house tour of Italy, declared that there is much less religious freedom in Italy than in other countries he has visited.

"Italy has no place—like Hyde Park in London, for instance—where a man may expound his religious views to anyone who will listen.

"Men like Billy Graham are not permitted to hold huge meetings here. There is much more political freedom than freedom of religion.

"Yet the authorities must realize that the Communist meetings which are held every day must be very harmful to their national religion."

Wengert continued, "All the Italians I know call me 'Beel.' But some of the women custodians of the apartment houses I visit call me 'the man who is trying to steal their souls.' They ring for the police as soon as they see me. Then it is only a matter of minutes before the flying squad roars up to tell me I have to leave because I am disturbing the peace. The carabinieri officers are always very nice about it, but also are very firm."

2,500 Workers

In reply to a question about how many people were participating in his campaign in Italy, Wengert said:

"We have quite a small army—at least 2,500 Italians and about 40 non-Italians. My wife, Loice, also helps me with my work, and she spends just about as much time on the road as I do. Mind you, it is tiring work walking the streets in this terrific heat, calling on family after family in a bid to preach to them in the most informal manner.

"But what is most likely to sap your strength is the sight of a succession of doors being slammed in your face. It is then that you have to fight desperately hard to keep your spirits up, whether the police appear on the scene or not."

Not Quite St. Roger

A federal district court decision to release Roger Touhy from prison because he was railroaded into prison in the thirties by rival gangsters, has opened the way for the favorite American practice of shedding tears for all victims of injustice.

But before we move to canonize Touhy or get under way with the help of people who had no acquaintance with the gangsterism of the Capone era, there are a few facts to be remembered.

Capone himself was put away on an income tax rap, which was a roundabout way of getting rid of him. But no one objected. Touhy may have been railroaded as claimed, but if so it cannot be claimed society suffered from his involuntary absence. He did not come by his nickname of "The Terrible" Touhy by being kind and sweet to the human race.

The smiling friends and acquaintances who now beam over his shoulder in his "vindication pictures" would have quivered in terror when Roger was at the peak of his career of violence and corruption. It wouldn't have been safe then to stand so close to a man famous for his murdering, bribing and general lawlessness.

The Touhy of those days had nothing but contempt for the law under whose majesty he finally has been sprung from the pokey where he deserved to be, if not for one reason then for another. After all, Capone was put away for bad bookkeeping, which clearly was not the worst of his crimes.

Apparently Touhy was put away improperly. The statute of limitations has taken care of his unsettled scores, so he now can go free. But it still isn't St. Roger — not yet.

Everything but Government

An intriguing theme runs through everything being written about our sister republic of France as its dynamic premier, Pierre Mendes-France, makes his exciting bid to lead it out of the doldrums.

The theme is that France has everything it needs to become a major power in Europe and the world, except government. It is not the French people or their resources that have gone sour. It is a system of government that has grown weak and ineffectual that is the bottom of France's weakness.

There is so much more to be done than one man can do that Premier Mendes-France cannot hope to do everything. But he has begun to do something, and the thing he has begun to do is more important than any of the things he is publicly credited with doing. He has revived hope.

All nations live in fear of their own decline and fall. Yet, it is not nations that decline and fall, it is governments. They drag down nations with them. To avert the disaster it is not necessary to make over the whole people but only the organization of the fraction of the people concerned with government.

The French people, floundering and without hope, have begun to have hope again because a man with energy and ideas has organized a new kind of government—a kind that is trying to get something done. The will to survive is in favor of the Mendes-France regime. France has declined, but it has not fallen.

Nationalistic Fish

Congressmen themselves are having so much fun with a proposal to nationalize restaurant trout that the idea's backers probably will give it up as a bad job. A trout is, after all, a trout regardless of what label it bears on the menu.

If it were to be made legally wrong to label trout from a lake as "brook" trout, it would then be wrong to call Philadelphia scrapple from Reading, Virginia ham from Tennessee, Vermont maple syrup from Geauga County in Ohio, Washington apples from Oregon and California oranges from Texas.

This sort of thing ultimately simmers down to a question of whether or not the consumer of the commodity objects to being misled by a label that identifies a dish. Chances are he doesn't care where a trout came from any more than he cares where a southern belle learned to talk that way.

That Matchless Flavor

Roasting ears may be relatively scarce this year because of the drought, but it is satisfying to note that this August delicacy is available at many stands along the roads and in many stores.

For those who have not yet tried a sample we might say the ears still have that matchless flavor and succulence when smothered with butter and topped with a dash of salt.

At first thought, it seems too bad the season for such a treat as sweet corn is so short. But upon reflection it is easy to see that this bountiful gift of nature was not intended to sate the appetite of man. It does not seem possible that sweet corn could maintain such unparalleled quality beyond its present season, under any circumstances.

If you haven't already had your first sweet corn of 1954 you had better hurry. Dry weather will make the supply erratic.

Still Going Strong

By David Lawrence

Hoover's Devotion to Service Undeterred by Abuse

Herbert Hoover has just reached his 80th birthday — and he is still going strong. He continues to serve his government without personal recompense. Even in the four years when he was president, he took no salary for himself, but gave most of the $300 000 to charity and returned the rest to the Treasury of the United States. Every dollar he has ever drawn from the government has gone to help his fellow man.

The key note of Mr. Hoover's life has been service. He gave up his work as a mining engineer to take hold of the great task of organizing the relief of Belgium after it had been devastated in World War I. He served as food administrator of the United States during the first World War under President Wilson and organized relief work for the German people afterwards.

Today he is serving President Eisenhower as he did President Truman in the thankless, unspectacular and tedious job of reorganizing the machinery of the federal government.

HERBERT HOOVER had the misfortune of being president when the biggest economic depression in world history started in Europe and swept the United States.

Political opponents "abused" him as responsible for it all and that was why he lost re-election in 1932 to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Campaign orators for the Democratic party have not missed a chance every election year since that time to bring out the ghost of a so-called "Hoover Depression" to persuade voters to eschew the Republican party.

Even as late as a few weeks ago Adlai Stevenson took occasion to berate Hoover for the "failures" of his administration. Based on a recent letter to the Washington Star signed by "Old Reactionary" who came to the defense of Hoover, here is a list of some "failures" of another kind:

"Mr. Hoover failed to repudiate the promise on government promissory notes (the notes promising payment in gold).

"Mr. Hoover failed to try to pack the Supreme Court of the United States (a reference to Roosevelt's unconscionable effort to add six justices so as to circumvent the majority of the nine whose decisions he didn't like).

"Mr. Hoover failed to appeal for votes in a presidential campaign by promising a 25 per cent reduction in the federal budget which was then honored by an increase of 300 per cent.

"MR. HOOVER failed to claim the right to seize private property under 'inherent powers' (a reference to Truman's seizure of the entire steel industry which was later declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States).

"Mr. Hoover failed to place the government in competition with private business and failed to put his political fortunes above the letter and spirit of the Constitution (a reference to the deception whereby the TVA was built originally as a flood control project and then became a symbol of government ownership of electric power plants).

"Mr. Hoover failed to humiliate any of the top generals of the United States Army for advocating an aggressive instead of a do-nothing policy in a 'police action' (a reference to Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur in the Korean War).

"Mr. Hoover failed to waste the taxpayers' money on boondoggling (a reference to so-called relief projects under the Roosevelt regime) and did not sell himself into political slavery for a campaign contribution of 500 000 or bow to the dictates of the labor bosses to secure a nomination (a reference to the loan of $500 000 by the CIO during a political campaign of President Roosevelt).

"Mr. Hoover failed to bundle up a lot of government documents to sell as a book at a huge profit to himself (a reference to Roosevelt and Truman).

"MR. HOOVER failed to ask Congress to pay the bill for a museum to house his marvelous collection of war stuff — he paid for it himself. The former president built at Rapidan — near Washington — a resort for fishing and recreation and gave it to the government. He did not go on fishing trips on government warships accompanied by a fleet of destroyers."

Such a chronicle contains some facts little known to the American people. It hasn't been his generosity on material things but his generosity of time, energy and spirit — his selfless dedication to service for his fellow man — that has made the Quaker President an honored and respected citizen who at the age of eighty is still working for others.

Teamsters Know How

By TRUMAN TWILL

Taking it one way and another I will yield to no one in a contest of vituperation. With no special provocation I can turn the air purple in a radius of 100 feet with a scattergun blast of abuse. If the occasion justifies it, I can concentrate on a close-at-hand object with a blast that would have done credit to a circus mule skinner after an all-day rain.

This has been a source of embarrassment to my family on many occasions, the more so because in appearance I am not the kind of a fellow from whom vile language seems to emerge in an easy, natural flow. There is the same incongruity that embarrasses families when a sweet-looking grandmother busts out with something to curl your hair.

Last night while performing routine work with a mowing machine in a reclaimed marsh punctuated with dry snags of chopped-over roots which kept stalling the engine, I got to listening to my own vituperation. A stranger hearing it would have been sure he was listening to a man livid with anger. The opposite was true.

The mowing machine and I work together on good terms. When it hits a snag and stalls I make certain routine observations about mowing machines, snags and the nature of the world and the universe. They sound angry. But they are not angry at all. They are discursive.

This is a practice I picked up as a child by being around teamsters. Any teamster in those days could uncork a blast of vituperation that would make women scurry home for their smelling salt and make strong men look grim. But there was no anger in what they did. It was a way of getting along with horses and mules. It was a form of self-expression like finger-painting.

Blasphemy frequently was the backbone of the teamsters' patter, but the patter was at its best when it rose above blasphemy and entered the higher realm of descriptive abuse and free-ranging calumny. This is what I strive for in my discourses with the mowing machine. Since the nearest neighbor is a farmer who can put more heartfelt vituperation into rounding up of his herd of cows at milking time than politicians can put into an election eve speech, I have no inhibitions. The farmer overhears me and says, "Twill is hitting snags with his mowing machine." I overhear him and say, "It's milking time."

Women don't get the hang of vituperation. They are unable to understand why anyone should go to so much trouble for no purpose. They fail to grasp the importance of being on talking terms with a working companion even though it be inanimate.

In the case of a previous mowing machine, the women at my place got an idea that I was feuding with it. When they caught me kicking at it one day, they began to drop hints about blood pressure and grown men acting like children. What they will never know is that the machine and I were sweethearts. It spluttered and I spluttered. We talked each other's language—and performed a lot of dirty, disagreeable work together.

Its successor is a lovable too, all allegations, misrepresentations and slurs to the contrary notwithstanding. After all, not everybody can own a mule to listen to his vituperation—and 15 or 20 minutes of unbridled vituperation a day never hurt anybody.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

A well-known Indian in Marion county was Solomon Johnnycake, whose wife was Sally Williams, a quarter blood. Johnnycake was a friendly hunter and he and his family led a happy life. Sally and his children accompanied him on his expeditions. He would construct a bark wigwam for the family while he ranged the woods in search of game. Sally was said to be a neat housekeeper. She was a daughter of a white woman who was captured in girlhood upon the Pennsylvania Frontier. Johnnycake went West with his people and three of his sons served in a Kansas Indian company in the Union Army during the Civil War.

Merchant Marine Heads for Scrap Heap

By Richard Fryklund

The bulk of the United States Merchant Marine is scheduled to fall apart like the wonderful one hoss shay sometime between 1960 and 1965.

And while the fleet sails nervously toward its doom, the American shipbuilding industry, instead of rejuvenating the Merchant Marine, is gradually fading away.

These two disasters are worrying a good many men in the administration, on Capitol Hill and in the maritime industry. There is general agreement that the maritime industry cannot be allowed to decline and disappear. The problem, however, is to meet the crisis in a way that Uncle Sam can afford.

The dimensions of the crisis can be grasped readily with a few figures.

Eighty per cent of the 1 248 oceangoing merchant ships operated by American companies at the first of this year were built during World War II. The normal useful life of a merchant ship is about 20 years. So in a short span of half a decade, starting about six years from now, four fifths of the merchant fleet will become too old and worn to be operated profitably.

Meanwhile the shipbuilding industry is failing to turn out replacements for those aging ships. New ship construction is dropping rapidly. Just one and one half years ago 92 major merchant vessels were under construction. Six months ago only 48 ships were being built. One month ago that number had dwindled to 23. At the end of this year it will be two.

NOT ONE ORDER for a privately owned ocean-going merchant ship has been received by an American shipyard since November 1952.

Repair work, construction of inland vessels and government contracts have kept some yards alive, but employment in all kinds of private shipyards declined from 128 000 persons to 106 000 persons in the past year. The number building merchant ships in the major coastal yards was 23 000 in 1953, will be about 10 000 this year and 1 200 next year.

All this is tough, of course, for men who have money and jobs invested in the maritime industry, but it also could be tough for the nation if another war came.

Belief in the importance of the Merchant Marine is bipartisan. President Eisenhower has said:

"American industrial prosperity and military security both demand that we maintain a privately operated merchant marine adequate in size and of modern design to insure that our lines of supply for either peace or war will be safe."

And President Truman's advisory committee on the merchant marine said in 1947:

"A modern, efficient merchant fleet and an effective and progressive shipbuilding industry are necessary economic adjuncts to the peacetime economy of the United States and are indispensable to national security."

If the maritime industry is so indispensable, why isn't it flourishing?

Simple — it costs too much.

To find markets for their products shipbuilders must sell cheaper than their foreign competition. But they can't. Construction costs, particularly labor, run almost double that of the competitors. So a modern 28 000-ton tanker which can be purchased at a foreign yard for about 4.5 million dollars would cost around 7 million at Baltimore.

Once an American ship hits the high seas it is even less able to compete. It costs about $23 000 a month to operate a Liberty type vessel with an American crew. A Norwegian shipowner with a Norwegian crew can operate the same ship for $5 100, an Italian for $4 250, a Japanese for $3 000.

IT ADDS UP to this: The high-cost operators get fewer cargoes, make less money — and make do with old World War II vessels because they can't afford to modernize.

The problem of competition is an old one and has been attacked vigorously by the government. The 1936 Merchant Marine Act provides for subsidy of both construction and operation of American ships used in regularly scheduled foreign service. With Uncle Sam chipping in generously, a shipping line is supposed to be able to buy an American vessel for about the same price that a foreign yard would charge, and the line is supposed to be given the difference in cost between operating that ship with an American and a foreign crew.

This "100 per cent of parity" support for the maritime industry has kept a good many American shippers in business, but it has not achieved the goal of a modern and ample operating and building program.

The industry wants more help and wants the help extended to tramp, coastal and inland vessels.

The Commerce Department and Maritime Administration recently collaborated on a study to learn whether the government could and should give more help. Its report is not official administration policy, but it shows how the President's advisers are thinking.

Conclusions of the committee were these: Construction of 60 merchant ships should be ordered each year so that (1) about 36 000 men could be kept busy on construction alone and (2) ships becoming obsolete can be replaced. Annual cost to the government would be about 400 million dollars.

The report also recommended streamlining existing subsidy programs and encouraging more economical operation.

Congressmen have stepped in with bills to implement the committee recommendations. Rep. Tollefson, a ranking Republican on the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, introduced a bill to authorize annual construction of 60 ships. Sen. Butler has offered a perhaps more realistic bill calling for 20 ships a year.

Neither bill has been acted on.

INACTION ON THESE bills does not mean Congress is unsympathetic to the maritime problem. Some members of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and the Senate Commerce Committee believe the maritime industry has all the help it really needs, but the majority sentiment is for more aid.

Congress this year appropriated 5 million dollars to finance construction in private yards of several ships for the military sea transportation service.

Two other aid bills were just sent to the White House. One would permit the government to buy old tankers provided the sellers used the money to build new ones. The other would permit the Navy to order 20 tankers at a cost of 150 million dolars.

A bill to spend 25 million dollars to start a program of repair and modernization of merchant vessels in the mothball fleet has passed both houses and is in conference. Two measures to provide government guarantees for ship construction loans and to require that 50 per cent of the foreign shipments made in connection with government orders each have cleared one house.

There will be some immediate patching of the one hoss shay, but a complete overhaul job is not yet in sight.

Call the Cop-on-the-Beat

Every [illegible] of New York [illegible] the Public [illegible] to the need for more foot [illegible]. Every [illegible] has [illegible] before it can be raised. The cop has disappeared from the vocabulary of the bad actor because he knows the cops are checking parking meters, or directing traffic. It is rare for a hoodlum to see a policeman except in an automobile. There are kids in every city [illegible] who have never seen a policeman walking.

The strongest arm of law enforcement used to be the foot patrolman. He had to be vigilant, tough, always near and always a triple-threat man. The sense of [illegible] aloofness that comes with riding in an auto was not in him.

His view of what was going on in the neighborhood was not that of a swiftly moving [illegible] in the Flying Carpet of Bagdad.

He [illegible] job—his [illegible] knew all the teen-agers [illegible] as kids [illegible] cloud of dust. He knew every alley as a regular visitor [illegible] on a flying trapeze.

He had [illegible] siren. He swung a billy [illegible] two-way [illegible] switch. Everybody knew how he looked standing up! No kids [illegible] as he came down the street, huge, wholly visible from head to foot, each [illegible] a 3-D feature, and a look on his face that plainly said "No fooling." No mugs sneered at him unless they wanted a cracked skull and no hoodlums [illegible]. Lots beat him up unless they were tired of living.

The cop on the beat was a [illegible] and a [illegible]. He grew [illegible] had all the muscles associated with [illegible] exercise and viewed personal combat as [illegible] requiring gasoline.

He stopped to talk. Kids got to know [illegible] parents and was a friend, a counsellor and a terror whose footstep was known and respected, not as a stranger setting speed records [illegible] two given points and who knew people only through radio contacts. He was closeup and intimate, never needing a [illegible] to find out where he was or where he had been. He was "John Law," not the auto policeman [illegible] the cop, not the police car. He was "Mike" or "Pat" and never "Car Number 456X."

Kids took to their heels when they knew he was after them. The sound of his feet walloping the pavement and the sight of his nightstick well in hand had an influence over toughies such as can rarely be exerted by a distant auto siren and a [illegible].

The automobile cop is [illegible]. He covers a lot of ground and does [illegible] bravely. But the cop on foot, his corns hurting, his arches aching and his nightstick dancing, is a "must" if the fear of the law is to be put back into the heart of us all. He should not continue to be listed under the heading "Vanishing Americans."

The House has passed a bill barring a pension to Alger Hiss. [illegible] is an easy mark, but it is too much to expect him to make weekly payments to a [illegible] who tried to get him to stand on a trapdoor.

Yes, there [illegible] dog catchers [illegible] believe it or not. [illegible] New York has one and it went on strike against the SPCA — Probably wanted the same rate for Pomeranians as for Bloodhounds and Great Danes. (And overtime for catching greyhounds.) We [illegible] a [illegible] struggle keeping the wolfhound from the door.

News of Other Years

40 YEARS AGO — The war progressed rapidly as fighting was taking place in Alsace and Lorraine, Bosnia and the Save River valley.

Despite the attempt at ironclad censorship it was known that the French had been forced to evacuate Mulhausen and that the German invasion of Belgium was completely checked.

20 YEARS AGO — Formal charges against William L. Mark, suspended as chief of the Marion police department, were filed with the city civil service commission by Mayor C. A. Belio.

Food prices will be materially higher next year, said Secretary Wallace, but no shortage was expected.

The $100 000 estate of the late Juanita [illegible]ler Shewan, formerly of Marion and once known as the best dressed woman in Paris, probably would go without contest to her former husband, Eugene A. [illegible].

Announcement that Marion's relief mattress factory would be operated in the plant of the Smith Mattress Co. of 192-198 Blaine Ave. was made at the Marion County relief headquarters.

The fourteenth child, a daughter, has been born to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cochran of one and one half miles southeast of Morral.

10 YEARS AGO — American forces which had knifed eastward of Le Mans to within a suburb of Versailles without meeting serious little more than 90 miles from the Paris German opposition were reported turning northward in a seventy-mile sweep threatening all the Germans south of the Seine.

The Pacific war reached a new turning, launched suspiciously by the first allied offensive bombing of the Philippines, more B-29 attacks on harried Japan, liberation of Guam and by a historic Roosevelt-MacArthur-Nimitz meeting which might have set the U. S. Course toward Tokyo itself.

Paul D. Smith was named Marion County common pleas judge by Governor John W. Bricker, succeeding the late Hector S. Young.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home
Too Much Pattern?
If all the background elements in a room — that is walls, ceiling, floor covering and draperies — are patterned, the end result is pretty sure to be busy and restless, and much of the room's charm will be lost. Large designs in wallpaper, drapery and upholstery fabric tend to overpower small rooms.
Try Plain — and — Pattern Combinations
To achieve variety and interest. Enliven plain walls and floor coverings with figured draperies . . . or use plain draperies and rug with figured wallpapered walls . . . or try a wallpapered ceiling with balance of background plain. Keep wallpaper design in scale with size of room — and upholstery fabric pattern in keeping with size of pieces it is to be used on.

Two Juveniles Confess Crime Spree in City

Arrested After Stealing Auto. Youths Admit Four Break-Ins Here

A series of breaking and enterings in Marion during the past several weeks was cleared up today following questioning of two 16-year-old Marion juveniles who stole a car from the Drumm Nash Sales used car lot Sunday.

Apprehended Monday in Circleville by state highway patrolmen, the juveniles today admitted four breaking and enterings, the theft of license plates from a car in preparation to steal it and the attempted theft of a car from the Key's used car lot here, according to Police Chief Tom Coon.

Being held in the county detention home, Marion juvenile authorities were questioning them further today.

The boys admitted breaking and entering the B & W Garage at 320 N. Main St. Aug. 2 and taking change from a soft drink machine; breaking and entering the Russell Arnold home at 540 Silver St. Aug. 6, tearing up the inside of the house and taking some $60; breaking and entering the Pure Oil Station at Silver St. and the Pennsylvania Railroad owned by E. A. Vance July 29 and taking cigarettes and change from a cigarette machine; and a previous breaking and entering of the B & W Garage on July 15 and taking money from a coke machine.

They also admitted the theft of license plates from a car owned by Dale Hoover of 274½ Rose Ave. in preparation to stealing the car Aug. 7 and the attempted theft of an automobile at Key's car lot at 435 N. Main St. on the same day. Both times they were scared away, Chief Coon said.

A total of $28 50 taken from the Arnold home and the license plates have been recovered, Chief Coon said.

The two juveniles were picked up in Circleville by state patrolmen after stealing a car from the Drumm car lot early Sunday morning and eluding a city police cruiser in an hour-long chase which ended near Essex in Union County. The car was involved in a hit-skip accident in Marion during the chase.

Hancock County will send 11 men to the armed forces in September, while Wyandot County's quota is three men.

TO BE SCUTTLED

WASHINGTON (INS) — Four of America's most famous old fighting ships may be headed for Davy Jones' locker. USS Constellation, Hartford, Olympia and Oregon, veterans of battles from the Barbary Coast to Manila Bay, will be scuttled or scrapped in a Navy economy program presented to Congress recently. The four relic warships are so old and weary that the cost of restoring them is estimated at $35,000,000.

Springfield Gives Views on Proposed 2nd Ohio Turnpike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Clark County and Springfield delegation today told turnpike consulting engineers they believe the Toledo leg of the Cincinnati-to-Conneaut turnpike should begin near Springfield instead of near Columbus as now tentatively planned.

The delegation met with State Highway Director S O Linzell and representatives of the J. E. Greiner Co., and Coverdale & Colpitts, engineering firms making preliminary studies on the proposed new turnpike.

Carl Berg, manager of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, said he thought turnpike users going to the Toledo area would leave the super road at U.S. 68 at Springfield and get back on the turnpike at the Kenton interchange 51 miles north. The distance between Springfield and Kenton on the proposed turnpike is 83 miles.

Others from Clark County and Springfield who took part in the discussion were Robert Eastman, Clark County engineer; William Lucas, Springfield city engineer; Koder M. Collison, director of the Springfield Development Council; Walter Schilling, Springfield planning director, and Springfield City Manager Harold Check.

All said they thought the Springfield interchange on the proposed toll road should be at U.S. 68 instead of Ohio 72, a short distance away.

Turnpike Section Nears Completion

This section of the turnpike is officially scheduled to be opened to traffic by Dec. 1. Paving to date has been half completed.
